Cruisers Of World War Two:

German Light Cruisers of World War II Gerhard Koop, Klaus-Peter Schmolke, 2014-07-22 An immensely interesting look at the Emden, Königsberg, Karlsruhe, Köln, Leipzig and Nürnberg ships from drawing board to destiny. War History Online. The warships of the World War II era German Navy are among the most popular subject in naval history with an almost uncountable number of books devoted to them. However, for a concise but authoritative summary of the design history and careers of the major surface ships, it is difficult to beat a series of six volumes written by Gerhard Koop and illustrated by Klaus Peter Schmolke. Each contains an account of the development of a particular class, a detailed description of the ships with full technical details and an outline of their service, heavily illustrated with plans, battle maps, and a substantial collection of photographs. These have been out of print for ten years or more and are now much sought after by enthusiasts and collectors, so this new modestly priced reprint of the series will be widely welcomed. This volume is devoted to the six ships from Emden to Nürnberg that were built between the wars. They were primarily intended for commerce raiding, but the war gave them few opportunities for such employment, although they did provide useful support for key naval operations in the Baltic and North Sea. Two were lost in the 1940 Norway campaign, but the remainder survived for most of the conflict. A ship by ship history of the cruisers. The text is supported by an excellent collection of plans and photographs. Overall, this is a very impressive history of a fairly unimpressive set of warships. HistoryOfWar.org

The Encyclopedia of Weapons of World War II Chris Bishop, 2002 A lavishly illustrated compendium of military hardware covers everything that fought in the air, on the ground, and on the seas during World War II. There are more than 500 separate items of equipment used between 1939 and 1945, from combat handguns to massive aircraft carriers. More than 600 full color artworks accompany entries that feature a detailed history of each weapon's design and development, along with a full specifications table that includes performance, dimensions, armament, and crew details. A must have for military buffs.

German Cruisers of World War II in Action Robert C. Stern, Don Greer, David Gebhardt, 2005-01-01 Cruisers that fought in WWII descended from sail powered frigates of the 18th and 19th century. These vessels were designed for long range independent operation, cruising to gain information about the movement of an enemy, to raid the enemy's commerce, or to track down enemy commerce raiders. This title covers Germany's WWII Light and Heavy Cruisers of the Kriegsmarine. Included are the Light Cruisers Emden, Karlsruhe, Köln, Königsberg, Leipzig, and Nürnberg, and the Heavy Cruisers Admiral Hipper, Blücher, and Prinz Eugen. Also covers Z Plan and Shipboard Aircraft. Illustrated with 120 b/w photos, 6 color profiles, 19 b/w line drawings. 50 pages.

Japanese Heavy Cruisers of WWII in Action Wayne Patton, 2006 Japan entered World War II with the third largest navy in the world, after those of Great Britain and the United States. The 18 heavy cruisers of the Imperial Japanese Navy were a combined force of large and powerful ships designed for attack rather than defense. Long, low to the water, heavy, and fast.

they looked like no other nation's cruisers with their flush decks and curved hulls topped off with large pagoda like tower bridges. Designers of the heavy cruisers gave them a highly original arrangement of curved funnels, turrets and masts. They were at once beautiful and deadly as they sliced through the waves on their way to Pacific battles. Packed with more than 90 black and white photos, six color profiles and line drawings. Cruisers of World War Two M. J. Whitley, 1994. This book is a major contribution to naval literature which will enable historians, modellers and veterans to study the subject with an extra thoroughness and accuracy. D-Day, 1944 Theodore A. Wilson, 1994. Readers may be astonished at how much scholarly digging and the release of once secret information have transformed the history of this campaign. At times it seems like a whole new war. New York Times Book Review. The World War John Clark Ridpath, 1904. Japanese Light Cruisers of World War II in Action Wayne Patton, 2006-05-11. At the beginning of World War II the Imperial Japanese Navy operated a light cruiser force of 20 ships and added another five during the course of the war. These fast ships carrying seaplanes and heavy torpedo armament generally were used as flagships for destroyer flotillas and submarine squadrons. Of these nine were sunk by U.S. or British submarines, 11 were sunk by U.S. aircraft, two were sunk by U.S. torpedo boats or destroyers and three were still afloat at the end of the war. Includes never before published photos. History of the World War Francis Andrew March, Richard Joseph Beamish, 1919. The Royal Navy in World War II Derek G. Law, 2003. Coverage of the US Navy's involvement in the Atlantic and Caribbean Theaters is also included. A wonderful reference for historians, librarians and navy buffs.
