Cubas Sugar Industry:

Reinventing the Cuban Sugar Agroindustry Jorge F. Pérez-López, Jose Alvarez, 2005-01-01 The demise of the international socialist community led to a loss in preferential markets for Cuban sugar industry In response to the current crisis this volume gathers over a dozen recognized world experts on Cuban agroindustry to analyze specific topics and make recommendations that would reinvent the industry for effective transition to a free market environment

Cuba's Sugar Industry Jose Alvarez, Lazaro Peña Castellanos, 2001 Following forty years of tension between Cuba and the United States this study of Cuba s agro industry presents the results of a remarkable collaboration between researchers living in the two countries The authors consider the prospects for the sugar industry offering scenarios of a smaller more efficient role in the economy and examine reforms of the early 1990s

The Truth about Sugar in Cuba Antonio Barro y Segura, 1943

Cuban Sugar in the Age of Mass Production Alan Dye, 1998 This book examines the modernization of the Cuban sugar industry from the end of the Cuban War of Independence throughout the ensuing boom in the sugar industry An underlying theme of the book is the close connection between the technical and organizational changes in the Cuban sugar industry and the technological changes behind the managerial revolution in industrial countries The technical changes in the sugar industry marked by the diffusion of mass production technologies and the adoption in Cuba of modern central factories were characteristic of most progressive industries of that time In general the application of mass production technologies heralded the transition from proprietorships to modern hierarchical and corporate forms of business organization This book links the development in the Cuban sugar industry to the global movement in business organization and technology that has been referred to as the rise of managerial capitalism The first three decades of the twentieth century have been recognized as critical in Cuba s history because the economic foundations including the rise of sugar latifundismo were laid for the Cuban revolution Most of the existing literature has focused on the social impact of the profound socio economic and institutional changes that came with the massive entrance of capital from North America The line of investigation in this book is unique in that it examines the economic factors that underlay these socio economic and institutional changes What have frequently been seen as the effects of political intervention or imperialism the author identifies as economic outcomes caused by mass production technology This is the firstbook to apply the tools of the new economic history to Cuba complementing traditional historical methods with rigorous use of economic theory transaction cost economics and quantitative methods to arrive at its conclusions
