Always at the centre of any artistic and cultural excitement the Irish writer George Moore enjoyed a sixty

year literary career of prolific writing challenging friendships in Paris London and Dublin and relationships though not marriage with some of the most interesting women of his time This book the first full documentary biography of Moore since 1936 tells the remarkable story of a high spirited man and his pathbreaking innovations as a writer Adrian Frazier has mined letters memoirs society journals and other archives to reveal new information about Moores early life his ostensibly promiscuous bachelor days and his complex career as an author The book provides an engaging account of Moores pursuit of his passions from his early failed attempt to become an artist in Paris in the 1870s through his long career as an author Moore wrote plays poetry criticism short stories and sixteen novels Esther Waters being the best known His experiments in style ranged from the naturalistic A Mummers Wife to the stream of consciousness prose of The Lake and the seamless fluent narratives of his late manner the comic Hail and Farewell and the epic The Book Kerith Frazier records the relationships between Moore and his well known friends Yeats Joyce Archer Shaw Frank Harris Sickert Whistler and others and with the many women in his life including his greatest love Lady Cunard At the end of his life Moore sought without success a biographer who would candidly tell the story of his life loves and art Adrian Frazier has now written that story Adrian Frazier is professor of English at Union College Schenectady New York Among his publications are Behind the Scenes Yeats Horniman and the Struggle for the Abbey Theatre 1990 The Cambridge bibliography of English literature. 3. 1800 - 1900 Frederick Wilse Bateson,1940 George Moore and the Autogenous Self Elizabeth Grubgeld,1994 In the midst of an explosion of interest in the field of autobiography there have developed critical languages and approaches that allow us to read both George Moore s fiction and his fictive autobiographies in new and exciting ways Elizabeth Grubgeld presents a fresh look at the diverse experiments in fiction and the highly ironic and multi generic performances Moore put forth as his life story She focuses on the tension between Moore s fascination with deterministic theories of human behavior and his need to assert a principle of self creation his autogenous self Moore s work exhibits a profound recognition of the forces of heredity gender culture and history while simultaneously declaring his belief in an autogenous self In early novels like A Drama in Muslin and Esther Waters there is a notable conflict between his postulation of the pure instinctive individual and the emphasis upon the shaping power of heredity and economics inherent in the traditions of social realism that he adopts In The Untilled Field The Lake and later works Moore perfects a narrative technique that in highlighting the power of subjective memory allows his characters to work out a new relation with the forces of history Grubgeld s discussion of satire caricature and parody as autobiographical forms will contribute greatly to an understanding of how Moore viewed the relations between the self and the surrounding world This study which also incorporates a theoretical discussion of letters as autobiography will be of interest to specialists in Irish studies late Victorian and modern British literature gender studies and autobiography
