And Thus He Came a Christmas Fantasy Cyrus Townsend Brady,2013-05-11 The heavy perfume of rare blossoms the wild strains of mad music the patter of flying feet the murmur of speech the ring of laughter filled the great hall Now and again a pair of dancers peculiarly graceful and particularly daring held the center of the floor for a moment while the room rang with applause Into alcoves screened and flower decked couples wandered In the dancing space hands were clasped bosoms rose and fell hearts throbbed pulses beat and moving bodies kept time to rhythmic sound Suddenly the music stopped the conversation ceased the laughter died away Almost as it were poised in the air the dancers stood amazed One looked to another in surprise Something stole throughout the room which was neither music nor lights nor fragrance but which was life a presence Do you see that child asked the wildest of the dancers of her escort There she pointed He looks like a very little boy I see nothing said the man who still held her in the clasp of his arm He is strangely dressed although I see him indistinctly vaguely whispered the woman He wears a long white robe and there is a kind of light about his face See he is looking at us I see nothing repeated the man in low tones The heat the light the music have disturbed you let me get you I want nothing interposed the woman waving the man aside and drawing away from his arm Don t you see him there She made a step toward the center of the room She stopped put her hand to her head Why he is gone she exclaimed
