A. Reilly, 2019-05-05 Most people think breast cancer only affects women and men who have a family history Stay healthy eat right don't smoke get yearly mammograms The radiologist tells you you're good until next year You are all set Wrong Breast cancer can affect anyone any age any lifestyle Hidden from view Like an alien hiding in your chest Cancer cells put up a barrier around themselves A disguise so your body doesn't know it's there The only way to protect yourself is a good screening For some of us we have dense to extremely dense breast tissue which is like looking at a snow globe Impossible to see anything We need ultrasounds and MRIs We need good facilities and good doctors We need hope My book My Pink Diary A Survival Guide What Every Woman Should Know is my personal journey with breast cancer from day one to the present My words have helped so many women that I know I wanted to write down all of my experiences and research to help all women Not just the ones I know If my words can save women and help them go through breast cancer or procedures with a sense of ease and familiarity I will feel complete Every time I hear someone I know or a friend of a friend has breast cancer I just want to give them my book Friends ask me all the time if my book is ready so they can give to someone they know who is going through breast cancer My journey can help so many women on so many levels Of course I added in some humor Because laughter sometimes can be one of the best remedies So starts my journey The diary describes everything in detail with pictures charts and research I walked into every appointment and test blind frightened and ill informed Googling everything was foolish and scary I needed facts What would I be going through What can I expect from surgery chemo and radiation Every day was a journey Here it is Everything you need to know Even my medication schedule that I had to follow that prevented me from being sick from my endless chemo sessions I've included every detail of what to expect and many unexpected details I wish I had known prior Think of my diary as a guide through anyone's journey What does chemo feel like Lumpectomy vs Mastectomy What will happen before and after surgery or when I have biopsies I wish I had been more prepared So I wrote this diary to prepare the reader I was diagnosed with Stage 2B breast cancer in 2015 I had been faithfully going for routine mammograms since I was 39 At age 46 it was the first time in 7 years I was told I had dense breasts No wonder during my past mammograms the radiologists didn't see anything They really couldn't see anything The entire mammogram screen was white I should have been sent for better testing at age 39 This time they thought they saw something Maybe nothing they said After an ultrasound and MRI they found a large suspicious lump along with 5 other lumps 6 lumps in my chest 3 in each breast that had been undetected with the traditional 2D mammogram Who knows how long they have been in my breasts Today I am cancer free but live year to year waiting for the results of my MRIs My journey had to be shared I have been a graphic designer for over 20 years I graduated college with a degree in Journalism and a minor in English I wrote and designed My Diary Although there are thousands of books on breast cancer to the best of my knowledge mine would be the only book in diary form jam packed with information every woman should know written in an easy to read and understand format without technical jargon I wanted to write my book as if I was talking to a friend and I hope this will help everyone through this difficult journey

Beating My Breast Kate Cramond,2019-08-17 If there are any perks from breast cancer Changing Your Life should be one of them Yeah right Nearly a year out from my diagnosis just when everyone expects me to dust myself off and move on I m dull and dreary and utterly bogged So I start a diary hoping to sift through the quagmire in my head and make sense of what s been going on in my body Maybe even to crack the code to that big one why me Over the next year I pull apart my history diet lifestyle mental state looking for clues My attempts at self realisation get an airing and my adolescence shaped by tragedy and change Over time I describe my treatments a horror show that mutilates my boob kills my reproductive cycles and flattens me with side effects But surprisingly it is my stories that carry me through The contrast between young me and older me My brother and nephew long gone My love of the outdoors Rocks and bush And the rocks I carry with me still

Nothing's Changed Dorothy Abbott,1981 Then This Happened... Tom Ray,2018-11-30 The cover of the book is right after we left the doctors office We were just told my wife had to get a lumpectomy We got in the car and she shouted She doesn t even remember doing it But I remember it This is a daily cartoon journal I wanted to get back into creating comics and animation However the day I started we found out my wife had breast cancer I could have just given up But I needed to do something to help me deal with the news So I drew It s nothing special the first one was just a drawing I did on my phone But it felt so therapeutic to draw what I felt that I kept drawing something about each day to help me deal with it It first it was on whatever I had around me to draw it on my phone a napkin a post it note But over time as we dealt with it things became more clear and so did my comic journal My wife is now in recovery and cancer free But drawing about what we went through each day I think really helped us get through it It started a dialog that I don t think would have been there otherwise The comics aren t all about going through cancer We still had our day to day lives and sometimes it was just about that remembering something about each day It s really easy just to say Nothing happened today So I wanted to make sure I found something to look back on After a near death experience like that we knew that we wanted to do something different with our lives which will happen So we started taking chances We wanted to meet people in the artist community in our city I was posting these comics every day on a website I created called American Bandito So I started a podcast on the website I posted an ad on Facebook that basically asked artists within a 10 mile radius of where I lived if they wanted to be on it I started meeting artists through that ad People I never knew before And things started happening from there One of the people that I talked to for instance also did pop up events And she told me I should try it So I did I printed my comics as little books I made myself It was almost a year later we were selling things at an art event and that became this collection of comics from my journal over that period of a year
