Hunted Down (Annotated) Gaurav Singh,Charles Dickens,2018-05-12 In the case of Hunted Down a first person narrative in the manner of Wilkie Collins the motivation was decidedly pecuniary Its subject has been taken from the life of a notorious criminal and its principal claim to notice was the price paid for it For a story not longer than half of one of the numbers of Chuzzlewit or Copperfield he had received a thousand pounds Forster 344 For John Forster the installment of a novel was worth more aesthetically than a short story representative of a genre that he seems to regard as an inferior In fact Dickens s biographers from Forster to Ackroyd have paid scant attention to Hunted Down aside from the large sum paid for it and the possible connection between the story s antagonist and such real life models as the poisoners Thomas Wainwright Another notorious criminal who may have sat for the story s villainous Slinkton according to Philip Collins is Dr Palmer of Rugeley another wholesale murderer of persons
