Masibo Lumala, 2026-03-05 This handbook bridges a research and praxis gap with contributions from both scholars and scholar practitioners to form an overview of communication scholarship in African contexts The anthology showcases how communication scholarship can converse with on the ground initiatives and activism on the African continent Rather than attempting to provide one homogeneous picture of a diverse continent the handbook highlights the need to embrace an African worldview regional variations diverse meta theoretical perspectives and contributions from different subfields in communication e g organizational communication mass communication gender and communication crisis communication and health communication among others It addresses emerging and evolving issues in praxis such as digitalization and the role of technology new forms of activism and the Sustainable Development Goals This is an essential resource for advanced students and scholars in communication theory international communication African studies and the various subfields of communication studies as they relate to the African context Confronting Drought in Africa's Drylands Raffaello Cervigni, Michael Morris, 2016-05-09 Drylands are at the core of Africa's development challenge Drylands make up about 43 percent of the region's land surface account for about 75 percent of the area used for agriculture and are home to about 50 percent of the population including a disproportionate share of the poor Due to complex interactions among many factors vulnerability in drylands is high and rising jeopardizing the long term livelihood prospects for hundreds of millions of people Climate change which is expected to increase the frequency and severity of extreme weather events will exacerbate this challenge African governments and their partners in the international development community stand ready to tackle the challenges confronting drylands but important questions remain unanswered about how the task should be undertaken Do dryland environments contain enough resources to generate the food jobs and income needed to support sustainable livelihoods for a fast growing population If not can injections of external resources make up the deficit Or is the carrying capacity of drylands so limited that outmigration should be encouraged Based on analysis of current and projected future drivers of vulnerability and resilience the report uses an original modeling framework to identify promising interventions quantify their likely costs and benefits and describe the policy trade offs that will need to be addressed By 2030 economic growth leading to structural change will allow some of the people living in drylands to transition to non agriculture based livelihood strategies reducing their vulnerability Many others will continue to rely on livestock keeping and crop farming For the latter group a number of best bet interventions have the potential to make a significant difference in reducing vulnerability and increasing resilience This report evaluates the opportunities and challenges associated with these interventions and it draws a number of conclusions that have important implications for policy making
