Biomembranes Vol 12 Membrane Fluidity:

Membrane Fluidity Morris Kates, Lionel A. Manson, 1984-09 The aim of this book is to bring together in one volume the current research and thought on the concept of membrane fluidity as a biological phenomenon The invited articles are intended to review recent developments in the areas of membrane research covered and to summarize the current concepts and theories in those areas The authors have been given ample opportunity to present their thoughts and speculation on membrane fluidity and related phenomena in a more expanded form than is usually possible in reviews of this type It is hoped that this approach will have a stimulating effect on research and theoretical development in the biomembrane field The chapters in this book are arranged in three sections the first of which covers physical studies of membrane fluidity and related phenomena on the molecular level Included are chapters on intermolecular hydrogen bonding between membrane lipids thermal analysis of membranes application of fluorescence and NMR spectrometry to the study of membrane fluidity and the effect of drugs and other compounds on membrane stability and fluidity The second section deals with the regulation of membrane fluidity in microorganisms plants and higher organisms by factors such as temperature fatty acid chain length lipid desaturation and polar head group structure

Psychrophiles: From Biodiversity to Biotechnology Rosa Margesin, Franz Schinner, Jean-Claude Marx, Charles Gerday, 2007-12-08 Most scientists in the middle of the twentieth century would probably not have believed that life was possible at extreme values of environmental factors such as pH values close to 0 e g sulfurous environments or to 14 e g soda lakes salinities of 6 M NaCl e g Dead Sea hydrostatic pressures approaching 0.1 MPa deep sea and temperatures exceeding 100 C thermal vents or hot springs or as low as 20 C e g polar regions Of the current studies on extremophiles approximately 30 000 articles by the year 2007 almost two thirds have been performed on organisms adapted to outstanding temperatures but much more attention has been paid to thermophiles than to psychrophiles However over the past 10 years scientific publications on cold adapted microorganisms have increased by a factor of ten If one considers the extent of cold habitats psychrophiles i e cold loving organisms should largely lead in this comparison with thermophiles because a great proportion of the Earth's biosphere never reaches temperatures above 5 C Nearly three quarters of the Earth is covered by oceans whose deep water masses irrespective of latitude are constantly between 2 and 4 C The large continent of Antarctica also provides a permanently cold terrestrial environment as well as an aquatic niche in the surrounding ice that melts during the summer Other examples of cold habitats are permafrost soils high alpine soils cold deserts cold caves marine sediments snow glacier and sea ice

Signal Transduction During Biomembrane Fusion Danton H. O'Day, 2012-12-02 Signal Transduction during Biomembrane Fusion begins with three review articles that put the problem of signal transduction and biomembrane fusion into a general perspective Each subsequent chapter begins with an introduction which reviews past work on a specific biological system The authors current research is then detailed The chapters conclude with final comments wherein the contributors express viewpoints about the general significance and progression of their work This book comprises 12 chapters with the first focusing on signal transduction during biomembrane fusion The succeeding chapters then discuss the focal membrane fusion model osmotic phenomena in membrane fusion cell signaling and regulation of exocytosis at fertilization of the egg and signal transduction during exocytosis in mast cells Other chapters cover protein kinase c and granule membrane fusion GTP binding proteins and formation of secretory vesicles and signal transduction during phagocytosis The remaining chapters discuss calcium signal transduction pathway and myoblast fusion phospholipid metabolism during calcium regulated myoblast fusion protein kinase c membrane protein phosphorylation and calcium influx in chick embryo skeletal myoblast fusion and signal transduction and cell fusion in dictyostelium This book will be of interest to practitioners in the fields of neurobiology zoology and the biological sciences

Cossins,Society for Experimental Biology (Great Britain),1994 This volume sets out to summarize current knowledge of physical structural adaptations of membranes to fluctuations of temperature Temperature is one of the most potent perturbing influences on membranes and so it provides a useful model for analyzing how they respond to other stressful conditions
