Appetites And Identities An Introduction To Social Anthropology Of Western Europe:

Appetites and Identities Sara Delamont, 2002-09-11 Appetites and Identities is a clear inviting and fascinating introduction to the social anthropology of western Europe. It covers food, migration, politics, urban and country life, magic, religion, sex, and language in an accessible and straightforward fashion, introducing the student to aspects of the anthropology of contemporary European culture from mussel farmers in the Netherlands to Basque chambermaids in Lourdes and from unhappy bachelors in western Ireland to unwitchers in Portugal. Avoiding the technical language of many anthropological textbooks, Appetites and Identities sets out the anthropological literature on the rich diversity of dialects, cultures, and everyday lives of western European people, offering fascinating insights on how each region and community differs from its counterparts despite the notion of an integrated Europe. The book will stimulate curiosity about social anthropological investigation and about life in Europe today.

Entering the New Theological Space John Reader, 2016-05-06 This book presents theological reflections on the changing nature of church mission and Christian identity within a theology of blurred encounter: a physical, social, political, and spiritual space where once solid hierarchies and patterns are giving way to more fluid and in many ways unsettling exchanges. The issues raised and dynamics explored apply to all socially produced space, thus tending to blur that most fundamental of theological categories, namely urban vs rural theology. Engaging in a sharper way with some of the helpful but inevitably broad-brush conclusions raised by recent church-based reports, Mission Shaped Church Faithful Cities, the authors examine some of the practical and theological implications of this research for the issue of effective management and therefore church leadership generally. Speaking to practitioners in the field of practical theology as well as those engaged in theological and ministerial training, key voices encompass dimensions of power and conflict and identify some of the present and future opportunities and challenges to church faith-based engagement and leadership arising from blurred encounters. Contributors, practitioners and theorists, cover a wide spectrum of interdisciplinary professional contexts and academic denominational interests. Contributors include John Atherton, John Reader, Helen Cameron, Martyn Percy, Malcolm Brown, Karen Lord, Clare McBeath, and Margaret Goodall.

Myth and materiality in a woman's world Lynn Abrams, 2013-07-19 Shetland has a history unique in Europe: for over the past two centuries it was a place where women dominated the family economy and the cultural imagination. Women ran households and crofts without men. They maintained families and communities because men were absent. And they constructed in their minds an identity of themselves as liberated long before organised feminism was invented. And yet Shetland is a place which was made by the most masculine of societies: those of the Picts, Scots, and above all the Vikings, and its contemporary identity still draws on the heroic exploits and sagas of medieval Norsemen. This book examines how, against this tradition, Shetland became a female place and offers answers as to how, in this most isolated island community, the inhabitants transgressed and reversed their traditional gender roles. Reconstructing this woman's world from fragments of cultural experience captured in written and
