Apples On The Flood The Southern Mountain Experience:

Apples on the Flood Rodger Cunningham,1991 Appalachia Inside Out: Conflict and change Robert J. Higgs,1995 An anthology of Appalachia writings Race, War, and Remembrance in the Appalachian South John Inscoe,2008-01-01 John C Inscoe is a luminary in the field of Appalachian studies He has spent much of his career exploring the social economic and political significance of slavery and race in the mountain South as well as the complex nature of the region s Civil War loyalties and the brutal guerrilla warfare that stemmed from those divisions Using intimate vignettes to focus on individuals families and communities he keeps the human dimension at the forefront of his analysis In this collection of essays produced over the past two decades Inscoe devotes equal attention to how historical truths have been reshaped by later generations with vastly differing agendas Blending fact and fiction reality and perception Race War and Remembrance in the Appalachian South represents a multifaceted embodiment of a unique time and place in American history Two Worlds in the Tennessee Mountains David C. Hsiung,2014-07-15 Most Americans know Appalachia through stereotyped images moonshine and handicrafts poverty and illiteracy rugged terrain and isolated mountaineers Historian David Hsiung maintains that in order to understand the origins of such stereotypes we must look critically at their underlying concepts especially those of isolation and community Hsiung focuses on the mountainous area of upper East Tennessee tracing this area s development from the first settlement in the eighteenth century to the eve of the Civil War Through his examination he identifies the different ways in which the region s inhabitants were connected to or separated from other peoples and places Using an interdisciplinary framework he analyzes geographical and sociocultural isolation from a number of perspectives including transportation networks changing economy population movement and topography This provocative work will stimulate future studies of early Appalachia and serve as a model for the analysis of regional cultures The Civil War in Appalachia Kenneth W. Noe,2004-02 During the Battle of Perryville fought in Kentucky in October 1862 participants experienced an unusual phenomenon known as an acoustic shadow this peculiar combination of wind and terrain muffled the sounds of the fighting in such a manner that nearby soldiers were unaware that the battle was even taking place As the editors of this pioneering collection of essays observe a figurative acoustic shadow has long fallen on the study of the Civil War in Appalachia Regional stereotypes cursory generalizations and a neglect of geographic context have too often replaced detailed analysis and innovative interpretation Recent historiography has begun to present a fuller view of the war as it unfolded in the mountain counties of Alabama Georgia Kentucky Maryland the Carolinas Tennessee Virginia and West Virginia The goals of this volume the editors state are to provide a useful introduction to the social history of Appalachia s Civil War illustrating both the strengths and weaknesses of current historiography to sum up where we have been and suggest where we need to go and to point out the need to integrate Appalachian scholarship with studies of the Civil War and vice versa Among the topics covered are the experiences of blacks in Appalachia the war as it affected women the breakdown of community changing gender roles disaffection and desertion guerrilla warfare perceptions of mountain life and the early stirrings of industrialization These essays demonstrate the rich variety of Appalachian sentiments and attitudes toward the war dismantling familiar myths such as the view of Appalachia as a unionist monolith Following the conflict from the secession crisis to the postwar period these essays taken together provide what the editors call the closest thing historians have to a comprehensive history of the Southern Mountains at war Grasping at Independence Robert S. Weise,2001 By closely studying the strategic blend of land ownership subsistence agriculture and commerce Weise reveals how white male farmers in Floyd County attempted to achieve and preserve patriarchal authority and independence and how this household localism laid the foundation for the region s development during the industrial era By shifting attention from the actions of industrialists to those of local residents he reconciles contradictory views of antebellum Appalachia and offers a new understanding of the region s history and its people Jacket The Ballad and Oral Literature Joseph Harris,1991 Francis James Child compiler and editor of English and Scottish Popular Ballads established the scholarly study of folk ballads in the English speaking world His successors at Harvard University notably George Lyman Kittredge Milman Parry and Albert B Lord discovered new ways of relating ideas about sung narrative to the study of epic poetry and what has come to be called oral literature In this volume 16 scholars from Europe and the United States offer original essays in the spirit of these pioneers The topics of their studies include well known Child ballads in their British and American forms aspects of the oral literatures of France Ireland Scandinavia medieval England ancient Greece and modern Egypt and recent literary ballads and popular songs Many of the essays evince a concern with the theoretical underpinnings of the study of folklore and literature orality and literacy and as a whole the volume re-establishes the European ballad in the wider context of oral literature Among the contributors are Albert B Lord Bengt R Jonsson Gregory Nagy David Buchan Vesteyn Olason and Karl Reichl

Fighting Back in Appalachia Stephen Fisher,2009 Citizen resistance and struggle in Appalachia since 1960 Journal of Appalachian Studies ,1997 Fetching the Old Southwest James H. Justus,2004 Annotation Humorists from the Old Southwest Crockett Longstreet Thompson Baldwin Thorpe Hooper Robb Harris and Lewis formed a kind of shadow canon in American literature that led to Mark Twain s early work from 1834 to 1867 James H Justus examines this writing in the context of other discourses contemporaneous with it An American Vein Danny Miller,Sharon Hatfield,Gurney Norman,2005 An American Vein is an anthology of literary criticism of Appalachian novelists poets and playwrights The book reprises critical writing of influential authors such as Joyce Carol Oates Cratis Williams and Jim Wayne Miller It introduces new writing by Rodger Cunningham Elizabeth Engelhardt and others Appalachian Heritage ,2007 Gunfighter Nation Richard Slotkin,1993 The concluding volume of Richard Slotkin s highly acclaimed trilogy draws on a wide range of sources to examine the pervasive influence of Wild West myths on American culture and politics Contemporary Issues in Aboriginal Studies ,1989 Appalachian Journal ,2002 A regional studies review Indians are Us? Ward

Churchill, 1994 Churchill returns to cultural criticism for this fiery follow up to his Fantasies of the Master Race Once again he sets out to expose those who would appropriate Native culture and turn it into a commodity to be bought and sold He reviews motion pictures demonstrating the historical inaccuracies and perpetuation of stereotypes in Black Robe and books calling In the Absence of the Sacred by Jerry Mander an example of intellectual appropriation by a supposedly sympathetic author He turns an essay on Jack Weatherford's book Indian Givers into an exploration of plagiarism and publishers' penchant for books about Indians by non-Natives while works by Natives themselves go begging Other pieces deal with the issue of products and sports teams with Indian names and the impact of government definitions of who is Indian on Native artist Jimmie Durham The final piece examines how language oppresses and how it might be used for liberation Churchill's controversial style and work have brought him into conflict with both Natives and non-Natives Readers will however respect his passion and consistency Publisher's Weekly Program Organization of American Historians. Meeting, 1988 Ulster and North America Tyler Blethen, Curtis Wood (Jr.), 1997 Scholars from Scotland Ireland Canada and the US examine the dynamic nature of Ulster in the 17th and 18th centuries the experience of migration the development of economic strategies and community building in both Ulster and North America and ethnic identity and cultural diffusion The 11 essays were selected from biennial meetings of the Ulster American Heritage Symposium since 1976 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Tennessee Frontiers John R. Finger, 2001-11-13 The second narrative describes the period of economic development that continued until the emergence of a market economy Although from the very first Euro-Americans participated in a worldwide fur and deerskin trade and farmers and town dwellers were linked with markets in distant cities it was during this period that most farmers moved beyond subsistence production and became dependent on regional national or international markets Pistol Packin' Mama Shelly Romalis, 1999 Meet Aunt Molly Jackson 1880-1960 one of American folklore's most fascinating characters A coal miner's daughter she grew up in eastern Kentucky married a miner and became a midwife labor activist and songwriter Fusing hard experience with rich Appalachian musical tradition her songs became weapons of struggle In 1931 at age fifty she was discovered and brought north sponsored and befriended by an illustrious circle of left-wing intellectuals and musicians including Theodore Dreiser Alan Lomax and Charles Seeger and his son Pete Along with Sarah Ogan Gunning Jim Garland two of Aunt Molly's half-siblings Woody Guthrie Leadbelly and other folk musicians she served as a cultural broker linking the rural working poor to big city left-wing activism The author draws upon interviews and archival materials to construct this portrait of an Appalachian woman who remained radical raucous proud poetic offensive self-involved and in spirit the real pistol packin' mama of the song
