African Wild Dogs Brendan Whittington-Jones, 2015 450 is optimistically the number of free ranging African wild dogs left in South Africa If ever a charismatic African species could be considered an underdog in the face of human development the wild dog Lycaon pictus is it Available habitat is in short supply An abundance of fences and roads cut the landscape They are loved They are despised The immediate future of this dynamic endangered large carnivore is in the hands of a thinly spread intensely committed network of conservationists donors state reserves and progressive landowners When an opportunity to study wild dogs through the Endangered Wildlife Trust presented itself to Brendan Whittington Jones in 2007 he arrived in Hluhluwe iMfolozi Park naive to the challenges of real wildlife conservation The next seven years were a flood of lessons in the complexity and fascination of wild dog management anger management Microsoft Office diplomacy optimism and how to play wild dog travel agent The camaraderie of the unconventional crew of devoted field staff and researchers who dedicate so much to keep the species running was a revelation This book lifts the gloss and illusion off a wedge of carnivore conservation and reveals a snapshot of characters human and canid and organisations which tread the murky waters of trying to ensure the species persistence in South Africa There is only hope through action and remembering a cold beer at sunset and good bloody laugh can restore a little sanity Back cover The African Wild Dog Joshua Ross Ginsberg, David Whyte Macdonald, IUCN/SSC Canid Specialist Group, 1997 Over the last 30 years the African wild dog population has declined dramatically Dogs have disappeared from 25 of the 39 countries where they were previously found and only 6 populations are believed to number more than 100 Today it is believed that only between 3 000 5 500 dogs remain in 600 1 000 packs with most to be found in eastern and southern Africa The dramatic reduction in their population is attributed to a number of factors including human population growth and activities deterioration of habitat and contact with domestic dogs and their diseases This Action Plan explores some of the reasons behind their disappearance and provides a number of proposed solutions split into 3 priority areas ranging from habitat management and conservation to monitoring domestic dogs
