Robert A. Clark,1998-10-30 The increasing globalization of financial markets has resulted in a substantial increase in net private capital flows to developing countries primarily the emerging economies of Asia Eastern Europe and Latin America Until recently investors have ignored opportunities in Africa African markets caught investors attention in 1994 with Kenya s 179% U S dollar returns leading world equity markets along with six of the world s top ten markets being in Africa With low levels of correlation between African and developed world markets the African exchanges represent ideal portfolio diversification opportunities Moreover rates of return for African investments are among the highest returns in the world yet African nations have not attracted the foreign direct investment that is required to change their economies Dr Clark s research examines the nature and evolution of Africa s emerging securities markets and their role in regional economic development He shows that the continent s trading systems represent many different trading arrangements without standardized rules and procedures African countries continue to implement reforms to strengthen the development of financial markets but without the appropriate market microstructure and custodial arrangements international investors will not provide African projects with the equity capital required for further development The government s role in the regulation of developing equity markets therefore is a critical element to the success of the reform process Clark argues that freeing the economies to international competition will reap significant dividends for the continent s emerging economies As the markets evolve structural impediments will reduce leading to increased efficiencies and lower capital costs The African Journal of Business and Law ,2007 The South African Development Directory ,2001 Directory of Published Proceedings ,2004 The African Journal of Finance and Management ,2003 The African Business Handbook ,1993 Journal of Rural Development ,1991 Tizame ,1988 List of Recent Periodical Articles International Monetary Fund Library,Joint Bank-Fund Library,1989 Edition XII, Worldwide Directory of Post Graduate Studies in Business, Finance and Commerce, 1997/98 ,1996 African Finance in the 21st Century Marc Quintyn,Genevieve Verdier,2010-01-14 Financial sector development in sub Saharan Africa continues to lag behind the rest of the world despite some recent positive achievements There is a growing consensus that financial development fosters economic growth so why has more not been done to spur financial advancement in Africa This book is one of the few that tackles the debate of financial development in Africa head on It stems from the proceedings of a high level conference organized by the IMF Institute with contributions by experts from official agencies in Africa international financial institutions the private sector and academia The book begins by presenting the reader with compelling theoretical perspectives on the determinants of financial growth empirical analyses of the impediments to financial growth and overviews of developments in individual sectors It discusses policy issues related to financial sector stability regulation and supervision The final part investigates how specific measures can create room for financial growth even when the broader institutional framework remains weak Case studies demonstrate how individual countries have tried to stimulate financial development or how specific measures such as the establishment of credit reporting systems can generate a positive impact on financial growth Everyone interested or involved in deepening finance in Africa will find information and inspiration in this insightfull collection of papers
