African Islam Islam In Africa:

African Islam and Islam in Africa Eva Evers Rosander, David Westerlund, 1997 This interdisciplinary book focuses primarily on Sufism African Islam Islamism Islam in Africa and in particular on the interaction between these different forms of Islam Previously much interest has been concentrated on the critical Islamist views of Western or Western influenced ideas and patterns of life while the intra Muslim relationship between Sufis and Islamists has attracted less attention Some of the contributions concentrate mainly on Sufism to which the majority of African Muslims belong others focus essentially on the increasingly important impact of Islamism yet others deal more intensively with the encounter between Sufis and Islamists The regional focus is on areas where Muslims form the majority of the population mainly in North and West Africa In some of the essays special attention is paid to gender issues The book will be a valuable addition to earlier studies of Muslims in Africa Conflicts between adherents of locally contextualized forms of Sufi Islam and more universally oriented reformist Muslims are not new However intra Muslim tensions in North and West Africa have increased in recent decades largely because of the rise of radical Islamist movements in countries such as Egypt Algeria and the Sudan Modernizing Islamists are critical of African Islam and aim to purify it of pre Islamic African beliefs and practices However there is a revival within Sufism too and a concomitant tendency among Sufi Muslims to adhere more closely to Islamic law This intriguing example of intra Islamic debate is the principal theme addressed in the book

Pride, Faith, and Fear Charlotte A. Quinn, Frederick Quinn, 2003-03-06 While nearly one in every five people in the world today is Muslim Islam is spreading most rapidly in Sub Saharan Africa where one in three Africans today practices a form of Islam Sub Saharan Africa is today home to over 150 million Muslims Although immensely varied African Islam the authors demonstrate is defined by three overarching beliefs First African Islam is local Islam with no ordained clergy or international body to regulate doctrine At the same time the importance of Islam as a source of communal identity both within African societies and as part of the worldwide Islamic community is a defining feature of the African Muslim worldview Finally there is a pervasive belief among African Muslims that the West is on a new crusade against Islam At a time of growing interest in the worldwide expansion of Islam the Islamic revival in Africa deserves special attention With in depth coverage of Islam in countries across Sub Saharan Africa Pride Faith and Fear provides both a general overview of African Islam and a detailed picture of Muslim politics which are increasingly national politics in some of Africa s most populous regions
