Black Abolitionists in Ireland Christine Kinealy, 2024-03-29

Building on the narratives explored in volume one this publication recovers the story of a further seven Black visitors to Ireland in the decades prior to the American Civil War This volume examines each of these seven activists and artists and how their unique and diverse talents contributed to the movement to abolish enslavement and to the demand for Black equality In an era that witnessed the rise of minstrelsy they provided a powerful counter argument to the lie of Black inferiority Moreover their interactions with Irish abolitionists helped to build a strong transatlantic movement that had a global reach and impact The lives explored are Ira Aldridge the African Roscius William Henry Lane Master Juba William P Powell Elizabeth Greenfield the Black Swan Reuben Nixon James Watkins and William H Day Individually and collectively they demonstrated the agency and power of Black involvement in the search for social justice This book will be of value to students and scholars alike interested in modern European history and social and cultural history

The Black Avenger in Atlantic Culture Grégory Pierrot, 2019

With the Ta Nehisi Coates authored Black Panther comic book series 2016 recent films Django Unchained 2012 and The Birth of a Nation 2016 Nate Parker s cinematic imagining of the Nat Turner rebellion and screen adaptations of Marvel s Luke Cage 2016 and Black Panther 2018 violent black redeemers have rarely been so present in mainstream Western culture Gr gory Pierrot argues however that the black avenger has always been with us the trope has fired the news and imaginations of the United States and the larger Atlantic World for three centuries The black avenger channeled fresh anxieties about slave uprisings and racial belonging occasioned by European colonization in the Americas Even as he is portrayed as a heathen and a barbarian his values honor loyalty love reflect his ties to the West Yet being racially different he cannot belong and his qualities in turn make him an anomaly among black people The black avenger is thus a liminal figure defining racial borders Where his body lies lies the color line Regularly throughout the modern era and to this day variations on the trope have contributed to defining race in the Atlantic World and thwarting the constitution of a black polity Pierrot s The Black Avenger in Atlantic Culture studies this cultural history examining a multicultural and cross historical network of print material including fiction drama poetry news and historical writing as well as visual culture It tracks the black avenger trope from its inception in the seventeenth century to the U S occupation of Haiti in 1915 Pierrot argues that this Western archetype plays an essential role in helping exclusive hostile understandings of racial belonging become normalized in the collective consciousness of Atlantic nations His study follows important articulations of the figure and how it has shifted based on historical and cultural contexts

Becoming Ira Aldridge, a Black Shakespearean Actor in Nineteenth Century Ireland Christine Kinealy, 2023-10-18 This study throws light on a little studied but emerging field within Irish studies Black history It focuses on an American born Black Shakespearean actor Ira Aldridge who to follow his vocation and escape prejudice in America travelled to England in 1824 aged only 17 Despite some racial stereotyping his rise to prominence in the theatrical world was meteoric Until his premature death in 1867 he played to audiences throughout Europe from Galway in Ireland to St Petersburg in Russia winning plaudits and accolades and recognition as the leading Shakespearean tragedian of the day Aldridge was not just an actor wherever he performed he also delivered a message about the cruelty of enslavement and the need for Black equality This publication focuses on Aldridge's special relationship with Ireland and its theatrical traditions over a period of three decades

Cross-border Raiding and Community Conflict in the Lesotho-South African Border Zone Gary Kynoch, Southern African Migration Project, Theresa Ulicki, 2001 Race, Romanticism, and the Atlantic Paul Youngquist, 2016-05-23 In highlighting the crucial contributions of diasporic people to British cultural production this important collection defamiliarizes prevailing descriptions of Romanticism as the expression of a national character or culture The contributors approach the period from the perspective of the Atlantic maritime economy making a strong case for viewing British Romanticism as the effect of myriad economic and cultural exchanges occurring throughout a circum Atlantic world driven by an insatiable hunger for sugar and slaves Typically taken for granted the material contributions of slaves sailors and servants shaped Romanticism both in spite of and because of the severe conditions they experienced throughout the Atlantic world The essays range from Sierra Leone to Jamaica to Nova Scotia to the metropole examining not only the desperate circumstances of diasporic peoples but also the extraordinary force of their creativity and resistance Of particular importance is the emergence of race as a category of identity class and containment Race Romanticism and the Atlantic explores that process both economically and theoretically showing how race ensures the persistence of servitude after abolition At the same time the collection never loses sight of the extraordinary contributions diasporic peoples made to British culture during the Romantic era

Headley, 1878 Black Manhood on the Silent Screen Gerald R. Butters, 2002 In early twentieth century motion picture houses offensive stereotypes of African Americans were as predictable as they were prevalent Watermelon eating chicken thievery savages with uncontrollable appetites Sambo and Zip Coon were all representations associated with African American people Most of these caricatures were rendered by whites in blackface Few people realize that from 1915 through 1929 a number of African American film directors worked diligently to counter such racist definitions of black manhood found in films like D W Griffith's The Birth of a Nation the 1915 epic that glorified the Ku Klux Klan In the wake of the film's phenomenal success African American filmmakers sought to defend and redefine black manhood through motion pictures Gerald Butters's comprehensive study of the African American cinematic vision in silent film concentrates on works largely ignored by most contemporary film scholars African American produced and directed films and white independent productions of all black features Using these race movies to explore the construction of masculine identity and the use of race in popular culture he separates cinematic myth from historical reality the myth of the Euro American controlled cinematic portrayal of black men versus the actual black male experience Through intense archival research Butters reconstructs many lost films expanding the discussion of race and representation beyond the debate about good and bad imagery to explore the construction of masculine identity and the use of race as device in the context of Western popular culture He particularly examines the filmmaking of Oscar Micheaux the most prolific and controversial of all African American silent film directors and creator of the recently rediscovered Within Our Gates the legendary film that exposed a virtual litany of white abuses toward blacks Black Manhood on the Silent Screen is unique in that it takes contemporary and original film theory applies it to the distinctive body of African American independent films in the silent era and relates the meaning of these films to larger political social and intellectual events in American society By showing how both white and black men have defined their own sense of manhood through cinema it examines the intersection of race and gender in the movies and offers a deft interweaving of film theory American history and film history Camp and Tramp in African Wilds Emil Torday,1913 Catalogue of the Books in the Reference Department Blackburn (England).
