After Industrial Society The Emerging Self Service Economy:

After Industrial Society? Jonathan Gershuny, 1978 Monograph arguing that trends toward future UK postindustrial society are in the direction of consumption of consumer goods rather than in the provision of services maintains that the increase in service sector employment can be explained by the manufacturing industry's need for trained technicians while most other services are performed within the household by family members and discusses the effect declining service industry on occupational change and job design etc Graphs references and statistical tables After Industrial Society? Jonathan Gershuny, 1978-06-01 The Development of Service Economy Zhenhua Zhou, 2015-10-26 This book focuses on service economy development particularly on how an industrial economy evolves into a service economy The book is organized in three sections The first theoretically answers the general question what is the service economy The second explains the mechanism of the service economy's formation and development revealing the evolution trends and attempts to answer the question where does the service economy come from The third section includes an in depth analysis of Chinese case studies to answer the key question how can the service economy development be promoted Readers will discover what the service economy is and how it relates to and differs from the industrial economy More importantly it will provide policy makers with suggestions for how to promote service economy development Theories of the Information Society Frank Webster, 2002 In the first edition of Theories of the Information Society Frank Webster set out to make sense of the information explosion taking a sceptical look at what thinkers mean when they refer to the information society and critically examining all the major post war theories and approaches to informational development Theories of the Information Society, Encyclopedia of Consumer Culture Dale Southerton, 2011-09-15 The Encyclopedia of Consumer Culture is the first reference work to outline the parameters of consumer culture and provide a critical scholarly resource on consumption and consumerism Europe J. Berting, 2006 Modern Europe is a patchwork quilt in which a diverse array of national cultures have been pieced into one community In Europe A Heritage a Challenge a Promise Jan Berting reckons with a continent at a turning point in its history arguing that Europe must balance its urge to modernize with a respect for its shared legacy As Europe struggles with the tension between its past and its future Berting pinpoints challenges to modernization and proposes intriguing solutions He addresses topics as varied as the rise of Islam political liberalism and individual freedoms in this comprehensive volume sure to interest all those invested in the future of Europe Social Mobility Into Post-industrial Society Krzysztof Zagórski, 1984 Design Discourse Victor Margolin, 1989-09-15 The editor has gathered together a body of writing in the emerging field of design studies The contributors argue in different ways for a rethinking of design in the light of its cultural significance and its powerful position in today's society The collection begins with a discussion of the various expressions of opposition to the modernists' purist approach toward design Drawing on postmodernist theory and other critical strategies the writers examine the relations among design technology and social organization to show how design has become a complex and multidisciplinary activity The second section provides examples of new methods of interpreting and analysing design ranging from rhetoric and semiotics to phenomenology demonstrating how meaning is created visually A final section related to design history shifts its emphasis to ideological frameworks such as capitalism and patriarchy that establish boundaries for the production and use of design

The Changing Geography of Advanced Producer Services P. W. Daniels, Frank Moulaert,1991 The service sector is the fastest growing but least studied area of modern economic geography so many economic geographers are now turning their attention to how the so called tertiary economy operates to produce distinctive patterns of location and regional development Producer services are those provided to enterprises rather than to individual consumers and this book is the first to be devoted specifically to assessing their role as spatial phenomena and agents of economic and geographical change Daniels and Moulaert approach the topic at two levels firstly theoretical where conventional neoclassical models of production and exchange seem to have little value in explaining service production and therefore new theoretical perspectives need to be developed and secondly empirical which presents regional development histories of producer services such as accountancy consultancy or finance to illustrate the complexity of the geographical dimensions of the modern service company This is a landmark book for students and researchers in geography economics planning and public policy
