A Treatise on the Law of Domestic Relations Joseph Ragland Long, 1905 This book has been written to supply a need which I have personally felt as a teacher of law In writing it I have kept my own students constantly in mind and have endeavored to set forth those principles of the law which I thought they ought to know in such a manner as to be most readily grasped by them In all cases my aim has been to present and emphasize principles rather than the details of their application such details being supplied only so far as seemed desirable for purposes of illustration In the apportionment of space among the several branches of the subject I have acted according to my best judgment as to the relative importance to the student of each topic in the present state of the law in some instances devoting to a particular topic more and in others less space relatively than is done in other works written specially for the practitioner Preface
