Age Of Missing Information:

The Age of Missing Information Bill McKibben, 2014-09-03 Highly personal and original McKibben goes beyond Marshall McLuhan's theory that the medium is the message. The New York Times Imagine watching an entire day's worth of television on every single channel. Acclaimed environmental writer and culture critic Bill McKibben subjected himself to this sensory overload in an experiment to verify whether we are truly better informed than previous generations. Bombarded with newscasts and fluff pieces, game shows and talk shows, ads and infomercials, televangelist pleas and Brady Bunch episodes, McKibben processed twenty-four hours of programming on all ninety-three Fairfax Virginia cable stations. Then as a counterpoint, he spent a day atop a quiet and remote mountain in the Adirondacks exploring the unmediated man and making small yet vital discoveries about himself and the world around him. As relevant now as it was when originally written in 1992 and with new material from the author on the impact of the Internet age, this witty and astute book is certain to change the way you look at television and perceive media as a whole. By turns humorous, wise and troubling, a penetrating critique of technological society. Cleveland Plain Dealer Masterful, a unique, bizarre portrait of our life and times. Los Angeles Times Do yourself a favor. Put down the remote and pick up this book. Houston Chronicle

Using Propensity Scores in Quasi-Experimental Designs William M. Holmes, 2013-06-10 Using an accessible approach, perfect for social and behavioral science students requiring minimal use of matrix and vector algebra, Holmes examines how propensity scores can be used to both reduce bias with different kinds of quasi-experimental designs and fix or improve broken experiments. This unique book covers the causal assumptions of propensity score estimates and their many uses, linking these uses with analysis appropriate for different designs. Thorough coverage of bias assessment, propensity score estimation, and estimate improvement is provided along with graphical and statistical methods for this process. Applications are included for analysis of variance and covariance, maximum likelihood, and logistic regression, two-stage least squares, generalized linear regression, and general estimation equations. The examples use public data sets that have policy and programmatic relevance across a variety of social and behavioral science disciplines. Vital and Health Statistics. Series 22, 1966 Eritrea

Demographic and Health Survey, 1995 Health Expectations for Older Women Sarah B. Laditka, 2014-06-11 Explore international trends in health and longevity with a special focus on older women. This essential book examines the latest research on life expectancy and active life expectancy, the number of years that women can expect to live free from major disability in developed and developing countries around the world. It also explores the policy implications of the contributors' findings. Here you'll find a global study using data from the World Health Organization, a European study using data from OECD countries, and studies of women in the United Kingdom, Fiji, The Netherlands, Japan, Canada, and the United States. With contributions from demographers, economists, epidemiologists, gerontologists, medical statisticians, policy analysts, physicians, public health directors, and sociologists, International Perspectives on Health Expectancies for Older Women compares mortality and morbidity trends in various populations In addition to reviewing the current literature on active life expectancy this informative book looks at the distribution of total unimpaired and impaired life for several groups of older women defined by race education and marital history gender differences in health profiles in The Netherlands gender differences in life with and without six major diseases including both morbid and mortal conditions in the United States how mortality and morbidity patterns differ for Canadian women and men 45 years of age and older focusing on risk factors and chronic conditions such as low income low education abnormal body mass index lack of physical activity smoking cancer diabetes and arthritis patterns of healthy life expectancy for older women around the globe a comparison of the development and progression of physical disability in Japanese men and women and more
