Carbon Dioxide Climate And Society:

Carbon Dioxide, Climate and Society Jill Williams, 2013-10-22 Carbon Dioxide Climate and Society contains the proceedings of a workshop organized by the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis on February 21-24, 1978. The papers explore the potential consequences of carbon dioxide for climate and society and consider the biogeochemical carbon cycle as a background for predicting future atmospheric concentrations of CO<sub>2</sub>. The state of knowledge regarding the impacts of increased atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub> concentrations on climate and environment is also discussed along with the implications of such knowledge and lack thereof for decision making on energy strategies. This book consists of 36 chapters and opens with an overview of energy systems and CO<sub>2</sub> as well as the global carbon cycle. The reader is then introduced to the dynamics of the carbon cycle based on the findings of isotope studies, biotic interactions with atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub>, cryospheric responses to global temperature increase and the effects of doubling the CO<sub>2</sub> concentration on radiative-convective equilibrium. The following chapters focus on the influence of the greenhouse effect of the atmosphere on climate, CO<sub>2</sub> disposal in the ocean, the link between climate and economic development and how energy strategies are affected by the CO<sub>2</sub> question. This monograph will be a valuable resource of information for climatologists and energy policymakers.

Carbon Dioxide, Climate, and Society Jill Williams, 1978      Climate Change And Society William W. Kellogg, 2019-03-01 As man's ability to disrupt the climate becomes increasingly apparent, evidence is mounting that human activity-induced climate changes may well rival anything nature can produce. If the consensus of the international climatological community is correct and if worldwide use of fossil fuel continues to increase atmospheric carbon dioxide, mankind is in trouble. Carbon Dioxide Climate, and Society Roger Revelle, 1980      Social Science Research and Climate Change R.S. Chen, E. Boulding, Stephen H. Schneider, 1983-06-30 This volume presents the findings of a small group of both social and natural scientists who tackled the so what question. Led by Dartmouth sociologist Elise Boulding and Boulder climatologist Stephen Schneider, the group examined how a changing climate might affect people and institutions and how these might respond. The outcome of their interdisciplinary appraisal is a blend of careful reviews of relevant social science work, group interaction and discussion and concrete suggestions for further research and analysis. Carbon dioxide, climate and society, 1978      Energy Research Abstracts, 1979      Carbon Dioxide and Climate, 1981      Climate Change and Society William Welch Kellogg, 1981      International Perspectives on the Study of Climate and Society, 1978      Carbon Dioxide Effects Research and Assessment Program, 1980 In April 1979 the American Association for the Advancement of Science conducted a workshop attended by 85 experts from the physical, biological and social sciences. The conferees were divided into five panels dealing with the ocean and the cryosphere, the less managed biosphere, the managed biosphere, chiefly agricultural, forest and grazing lands, the ways society and its institutions might respond to climate change and issues involving the economic and geopolitical consequences of CO<sub>2</sub> build up.
