The Making of Lawyers' Careers Robert L. Nelson, Bryant G. Garth, Ronit Dinovitzer, Joyce S. Sterling, David B. Wilkins, Meghan Dawe, Ethan Michelson, 2023-10-03 How do hierarchies of race class gender and law school status condition the career trajectories of lawyers And how do individual lawyers strategically navigate the constraints and opportunities of their environments Where do they find professional satisfaction This book offers an unprecedented account of opportunity structures and social stratification within the early 21st century American legal profession combining unique longitudinal survey data with interviews storytelling and insights from social theory Starting in 2000 the authors collected over 10 000 survey responses from more than 5 000 lawyers following these lawyers through the first twenty years of their careers They also conducted in depth interviews with more than 200 lawyers They contextualize their findings through attention to the features of a market driven legal profession in particular the growth in recent decades of the private sector relative to the public sector and corresponding disparities in earnings and status between these different segments The analysis in this book reveals a legal profession that is highly stratified Although individual lawyers exercise agency and often find satisfaction in their work there are deep divisions within the profession by client type and practice setting and women and attorneys of color face discrimination and persistent barriers to advancement The careers of lawyers both reflect and reproduce inequalities in law and society writ large

Horgan, Lawrence A. Williams, National League of Cities. Department of Urban Studies, 1969 Nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be Vice President of the United States United States. Congress. House. Committee on the Judiciary, 1974

The Curious Public Administrator William Hatcher, 2023-11-09 Louis Brownlow one of public administration's historical thinkers once argued that the principal requirement of a good administrator is an insatiable curiosity This book is rooted in the notion that public administrators must practice insatiable curiosity to be effective fair and democratic By seeking to uncover how the world works and therefore practicing curiosity public administrators may be more likely to move toward evidence based decisions improving the efficacy and efficiency of public service Curiosity encourages public administrators to seek answers in a caring manner and in doing so to empathize with the communities that they serve First the book incorporates the concept of curiosity into the field of public administration Scholarship in philosophy business administration social science and other scholarly fields addresses curiosity but public administration has yet to examine this concept in detail This book fills that hole in the literature Second the book presents novel primary data on curiosity in public agencies by examining curious organizations and surveying local government officers Third the book presents novel primary data on how public affairs faculty view curiosity and incorporate the concept in their research and the classroom Lastly author William Hatcher integrates this information in the book's final chapter to present a model of administrative curiosity focusing on creating a guide for future research and teaching Thus this book serves as a roadmap for developing a new doctrine of curiosity in public administration theory and practice and it will be of enormous interest to students enrolled in public affairs courses as well as practicing public administrators and nonprofit managers
