Gordon L. Heath,2017-11-29 At the beginning of the twentieth century there were a number of smaller religious bodies that sought to develop religious and national identity on the margins something especially difficult when the nation was at war in South Africa This book examines rich and varied extant sources that provide helpful windows into the wartime experience of Canada s religious minorities Those groups on the margins experienced internal struggles and external pressures related to issues of loyalty and identity How each faith tradition addressed those challenges was shaped by their own dominant personalities ethnic identity history tradition and theological convictions Responses were fluid divided and rarely unanimous Those seeking to address such issues not only had to deal with internal expectations and tensions but also construct a public response that would satisfy often hostile and vocal external critics Some positions evolved over time leading to new identities loyalties and trajectories In all cases being on the margins meant dealing with two dominant national and imperial narratives English or French both bolstered respectively by powerful Anglo Saxon Protestantism or French Quebec Catholicism The chapters in this book examine how those on the margins sought to do just that Beyond Doctrine Januarius Asongu,2026-01-27 Beyond Doctrine A Critical Liberative Theology of Faith and Emancipation presents Januarius Asongu s bold reimagining of Christian theology as a force for human freedom dignity and moral transformation Moving beyond rigid dogmatic frameworks Asongu proposes a dynamic critically engaged faith rooted in justice compassion and the continual search for truth Drawing on Scripture tradition contemporary liberation thought and his own pastoral experience he argues that authentic Christianity must confront the social psychological and structural forces that diminish human life especially fear superstition exclusion and ideological manipulation At the heart of the book is a simple but profound claim faith becomes credible only when it liberates Asongu challenges inherited interpretations that sustain oppression or silence conscience offering instead a constructive theological vision grounded in human dignity reason and ethical agency He integrates insights from critical theory African theology spirituality and social ethics to show how believers can reclaim faith as an instrument of emancipation rather than control Part theological manifesto and part pastoral guide Beyond Doctrine invites readers to a mature responsible faith capable of transforming individuals and societies It is a timely and compelling contribution for theologians clergy students and all who seek a Christianity that truly sets people free

The waters of Africa Alfred Aloysius Horn,1929 African Repository and Colonial Journal ,1886 A Semiotic Approach to the Theology of Inculturation Cyril Orji,2015-03-27 This book argues that though it is a difficult and delicate task inculturation is still a requisite demand of a World Church and that without it the church is unrecognizable and unsustainable The book also suggests that the past failures of inculturation experiments in Africa can be overcome only by critically applying the science of semiotics which can serve as an antidote to the nature of human knowing and reductionism that characterized earlier attempts to make Christianity African to the African Drawing from the semiotic works of C S Peirce Clifford Geertz and Bernard Lonergan the book shows why semiotics is best suited to an African theology of inculturation and offers ten pinpointed precepts identified as Habits which underline the attentiveness reasonableness and responsibility required in a semiotic approach to a theology of inculturation The Habits are also akin to the imperatives inherent in the notion of catholicity that catholicity is not identified with uniformity but with reconciled diversity and also that catholicity demands different forms in different places times and cultural settings Furthering Humanity T.J. Gorringe,2017-03-02 How should we reflect theologically about culture Tim Gorringe presents a threefold and interrelated reflection organised around culture power and mission First Gorringe interrogates culture through contemporary cultural studies but also through the contribution of the great eighteenth century theologian J G Herder He concludes by considering the question of cultural imperialism Secondly Gorringe asks where power is located in culture and how the church relates to that arguing that the central theses of liberation theology are far from dead The third part turns to questions of mission asking whether this is morally feasible in a culturally pluralist world and considering the implications of Samuel Huntington's notorious thesis of the clash of civilizations Gorringe argues that mission is in fact a vital part of a respectful multicultural society flourish Human flourishing lies at the heart of the good news of the gospel and yet contemporary theologies know not only one way of speaking about what it means to flourish If we embed our theological grammars of flourishing in the doctrine of salvation as the doctrine in which theological flourishing talk is arguably rooted and from which rich fruit may be borne there is not one but various ways in which to speak about what it means to flourish Yet what governs our speaking Why do we speak of flourishing as we do The various conceptions of human flourishing that are outlined in this book piety joy and comfort being fully alive healing and dignity grace happiness and blessing represent a collection of attempts not only to imagine human flourishing but also to imagine ways of speaking about human flourishing Perhaps what theology could offer to the vibrant and robust conversations on human flourishing lies exactly in the reminder to take care about how we speak about that which is truly and deeply human our longing to flourish
