historical and contextual information that reflects Smith's own process of continually reviewing and revising his writings in response to his evolving aspirations as a visual artist. Provided by publisher Photography and Sculpture Sarah Hamill, Megan R. Luke, 2018-01-02. Ever since the mid-nineteenth century when the new medium of photography was pressed into service to illustrate sculpture, photographs of sculptural objects have directed viewers as to what in the course of ambling around a sculpture was the single perfect moment to stop and look. What is the photograph's place in writing the history of sculpture? How has it changed according to culture, generation, critical conviction, and changes in media? Photography and Sculpture: The Art Object in Reproduction studies aspects of these questions from the perspectives of sixteen leading art historians. Their essays consider iconic photographs, archival collections, new and forgotten technologies, and conceptual challenges in photographing three-dimensional forms that have directed changing historical and stylistic attitudes about how we see, write about, and narrate histories of sculpture. Chapters on such varied topics as picturing Conceptual art, manipulating sacred images in India to be non-photographs, and framing Roman art with an iPad illustrate the latent visual and narrative powers and ever-expanding potential of these images of sculpture. African Folktales & Sculptures Paul Radin, James Johnson Sweeney, 1952. Catalog of the Library of the National Museum of African Art Branch of the Smithsonian Institution Libraries Smithsonian Institution. Libraries. National Museum of African Art Branch, 1991. Walker Evans Judith Keller, 1995-11-02. Walker Evans is widely recognized as one of the greatest American photographers of the twentieth century, and the J. Paul Getty Museum owns one of the most comprehensive collections of his work, including more of his vintage prints than any other museum in the world. This lavishly illustrated volume brings together for the first time all of the Museum's Walker Evans holdings. Included here are familiar images such as Evans's photographs of tenant farmers and their families made in the 1930s and later published in Let Us Now Praise Famous Men, and images that are much less familiar, such as the photographs Evans made in the 1940s of the winter quarters of the Ringling Brothers circus or his very late Polaroids made in the 1970s. In addition, many previously unpublished Evans photographs and variant croppings of classic images appear here for the first time. Author Judith Keller has written a lively, informative text that places these photographs in the larger context of Evans's life and career and the culture, especially the popular culture, of the time. In so doing, she has produced an indispensable volume for anyone interested in the history of photography or American culture in the twentieth century. Also included is the most comprehensive bibliography on Walker Evans published to date. Jet, 1952-12-25. The weekly source of African American political and entertainment news.
