African Regional Organizations:

African Regional Organizations Domenico Mazzeo, 1984 Essays examine security political financial and economic organizations in Africa and discuss the problems and prospects of each group Handbook of Regional Organizations in Africa Fredrik Söderbaum, 1996 Regional Organizations in African Security Fredrik Soderbaum, Rodrigo Tavares, 2013-09-13 The African continent is plagued by some of the most brutal and violent conflicts in the world At the same time that warfare is changing so has the state s capacity to provide security and political stability to its citizens This book deals with the role of regional organizations in Africa s security It focuses on three basic yet often overlooked questions 1 the advantages and disadvantages of African regional and sub regional organizations vis vis other security mechanisms 2 the official and unofficial reasons to intervene and 3 whether security is actually protected by the peace activities carried out by the regional organizations The contributors to the book all leading researchers in the field systematically assess and compare the role of the African Union AU the Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS the Intergovernmental Authority on Development IGAD the Economic Community of Central African States ECCAS and the Southern African Development Community SADC This book was based on a special issue of African Security African Regional Organisations , 2002* Contains reproductions of documents from the Organization of African Unity OAU African Union AU Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS Southern African Development Community SADC Intergovernmental Authority on Development IGAD Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa COMESA Economic Community of Central States ECCAS East African Community EAC and Arab Maghreb Union AMU African Organizations and Institutions United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Foreign Relations. Subcommittee on African Affairs, 2007 African Regional Organizations and Democracy Stephanie Schoppert, 2013 Instability and political repression are two reasons why many states in Africa are unable to develop African regional organizations have the potential to encourage democracy stability and development within their regions if they have the right tools Using case studies of two major interventions by African regional organizations this thesis will determine what those tools may be Both the intervention of ECOWAS into Liberia and the SADC into the DRC were rife with problems but they were able to bring some stability and even democracy to states in crisis This thesis finds that African regional organizations can promote democracy and stability but the focus is always on stability for the region With strong institutions and mandates policy agreement and strong leadership African regional organizations can bring stability development and even democracy to their regions Basic Documents of African Regional Organizations Louis B. Sohn, 1971 African Organizations & Institutions: CrossContinental Progress: Congressional Hearing , African Regional and Sub-regional Organizations Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars. Africa Program, Partnership to Cut Hunger and Poverty in Africa, 2008 As one examines the Africa of today its and its problems its progress and its past there area number of recent developments that augur well for the future This evolution gives Africa's leaders the tools and framework to fashion its way forward and to secure Africa's rightful role in the global order. Africa is still beset with conflicts and development challenges but it also boasts states that have made the transition some smoothly and some more awkwardly to democratic governance and have established the sound and diversified economic need to support and sustain these transitions. Bright spots are offset by ongoing tragedies like Somalia, Darfur and the Eastern Congo but the balance is slowly tipping toward peace, progress and stability. Nothing contributes more to this positive trend than the coming of age of the regional structures of Africa primarily focused on economic integration, export and trade promotion and development. Increasingly over the last decade these regional bodies have begun to understand and to take on a prominent role in conflict resolution with their neighbors both formally and informally. This is evident in the recent peace processes in Burundi, Liberia, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Zimbabwe and elsewhere. On April 10, 2008 the Africa Program spotlighted this development in one of its regular public policy forums. Together with the Partnership to Cut Hunger and Poverty in Africa the Africa Program hosted a day long conference discussing the potential role of regional organizations in economic growth and security reform across Africa. The following report details the discussions and conclusions of that day which featured prominent African leaders from all over the continent including representatives and leaders of many of the very regional organizations which were the subject of the day. Introductory African International Relations Mark W. DeLancey, 2019-03-13. African International Relations is a thoroughly revised and updated bibliography that contains annotated entries for international books and journal articles in the field of African international relations.

West African Regional Cooperation And Development Julius E Okolo, Stephen Wright, 1990-06-12. The Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) offers a strong and respected example of regional cooperation and serves as a model for the rest of Africa. In this study of development among the 16 ECOWAS states contributors analyze the structure and development of ECOWAS as well as its interaction with other organizations and groupings of states. African peace Kathryn Nash, 2021-02-09. African regional organizations have played leading roles in constructing collective conflict management rules for the continent but these rules or norms have not been static. Currently the African Union (AU) deploys monitors, authorizes peace support operations and actively engages to resolve internal conflicts. Just a few decades ago these actions would have been deeply controversial under the Organization of African Unity (OAU). What changed to allow for this transformation in the way the African regional organization approaches peace and security? African peace examines why the OAU chose norms in 1963 that prioritized state security and led to a policy of strict non-interference even in the face of destabilizing violence and why the AU chose very different norms leading to a disparate conflict management policy in the early 2000s. Even if the AU's capacity to respond to conflict is still developing this new policy has made the region more willing and capable of responding to violence. Nash argues that norm creation largely happened within the African context and international pressure was not a determinant factor in their evolution. The role of regions in the international order particularly the African region has been under theorized and under acknowledged and this book adds to an emerging literature that explores the role of regional organizations in the Global South in creating and promoting norms based on their own experiences and for their own purposes The African Union: Legal and Institutional Framework Abdulqawi A. Yusuf, Fatsah Ouguerouz, 2012-01-20 This work is an introduction into the origins law and institutions of the African Union AU It examines the evolution structures legal standards and operational activities of this Pan African organization which replaced the Organization of African Unity OAU ten years ago Constructing the East African Community Mariel Reiss, 2022-04-27 This book provides a systematic analysis of the establishment and decision making processes concerning the institutional design of the East African Community EAC throughout the 1990s and discusses to what extent these were impacted and inspired by other regional organizations from Africa and Europe Analysing the decision making processes that led to the set up of the EAC the book explores the extent to which they were impacted by several other regional organizations namely the Organization of African Unity OAU the Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa COMESA the Southern African Development Community SADC the European Union EU and the first EAC The findings indicate that the relevant east African state and non state actors adopted substantial aspects from the first EAC the EU and the COMESA and adapted them to set up the current EAC This book demonstrates that the perception of other regional organizations and their institutional design considerably effected the construction of the EAC here its own past provided crucial learning objectives which challenges the notion of mimicry or replica regional organizations of the EU in the Global South This work will be of particular interest to scholars and students of regional and international organizations international relations multilevel governance approaches as well as diffusion literature Building Security and Partnership Through African Regional Organizations RICHARD. JOKINEN, 2025-05-22 In 2002 the African Union AU was created with the aim of strengthening integration among member States and the voice of the African continent in global affairs The African heads of state recognized the Organization of African Unity OAU framework was no longer adequate to meet the needs for greater continental policy coordination stronger economic growth and growing security challenges By 2007 the United States responded with the creation of US Africa Command to be the Department of Defense DOD focal point for the coordination and execution of civil military operations This in itself is not sufficient to engage in the African theater An additional effort is needed to mitigate current US Theater Security Cooperation limitations coordination mechanisms and cultural mindset It is necessary to improve the access to ground truth information in Africa to overcome roadblocks in implementing a holistic African strategy and best tackle its diverse and complex challenges The US military must increase its application of soft power through renewed partnerships within the African Union and its Regional Economic Communities RECs to build capacity and create African solutions to African problems The US military requires increased multilateral diplomacy to maximize common US and African strategic interests build partnerships within Africa s diverse regions and integrate itself as a vital partner in Africa's 2050 vision. This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it. Spatializing Practices of Regional Organizations during Conflict Intervention Jens Herpolsheimer, 2021-02-28

This book studies relevant actors and practices of conflict intervention by African regional organizations and their intimate connection to space making, addressing a major gap regarding what actually happens within and around these organizations. Based on extensive empirical research, it argues that those intervention practices are essentially spatializing practices based on particular spatial imaginations contributing to the continuous construction and formatting of regional spaces, as well as to ordering relations between different regional spaces. Analyzing the field of developing practices of conflict intervention by the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) and the African Union (AU), the book contributes a new theory-oriented analytical approach to study African regional organizations (ROs) and the complex dynamics of African peace and security based on insights from Critical Geography. As such, it helps to close an empirical gap with regard to the internal modes of operation of African ROs, as well as the lack of their theorization. It demonstrates that, contrary to most accounts, intervention practices of African ROs have been diverse and complexly interrelated, involving different actors within and around these organizations and are essentially tied to the space making. This book will be of key interest to students and scholars of African Politics, Governance, Peace and Security Studies, International or Regional Organizations, and more broadly to Comparative Regionalism, International Relations, and International Studies.
