Africas Emerging Maize Revolution:

Africa's Emerging Maize Revolution Derek Byerlee, Carl K. Eicher, 1997 This text presents the results of extensive field research on the maize economy in six African countries as well as broader based studies of maize research and extension R E soil fertility seed distribution fertilizer and marketing and processing An African Green Revolution Keijiro Otsuka, Donald F. Larson, 2012-12-22 This volume explores the usefulness of the Asian model of agricultural development for Africa where even before the recent world food crisis half the population lived on less than on dollar a day and a staggering one in three people and one third of all children were undernourished Africa has abundant natural resources agriculture provides most of its jobs a third of national income and a larger portion of total export earnings However the levels of land and labor productivity rank among the worst in the world The book explains Africa s productivity gap and proposes ways to close it by examining recent experience in Africa and by drawing on lessons from Asia Reforming agricultural markets in Africa Kherallah, Mylene, Delgado, Christopher L., Gabre-Madhin, Eleni Z., Minot, Nicholas, Johnson, Michael, 2002-01-01 The long term reduction of hunger and poverty in Sub Saharan Africa remains one of the great challenges for the international development community Eliminating hunger and promoting widespread growth in the region inevitably involves agriculture given its central role in the region s economies Over the past 20 years most African governments have carried out reforms to deregulate agricultural markets and reduce the role of state enterprises How much has the state actually withdrawn from agricultural markets Have well functioning private markets emerged How successful were these reforms in boosting agricultural production economic growth and the incomes of the rural poor What lessons can we learn from the reform process The authors of this book address these questions through an analysis based on an extensive review of experiences with reform focusing on three major agricultural markets fertilizer food crops and export crops They examine the historical rationales for intervention the factors contributing to reform the process of implementation and the impact of the reforms on farmers and consumers in Sub Saharan Africa The authors find that reforms have had many favorable results but that the impact has been muted by partial implementation and structural constraints They propose a new agenda for promoting the development of agricultural markets in Sub Saharan Africa identifying areas where governments can play a supportive role They argue that appropriate agricultural marketing policies and investments can improve livelihoods and the economic health of the region International Agricultural Development Carl K. Eicher, John M. Staatz, 1998-11-20 Other topics include market failures food insecurity rural poverty environmental degradation income and asset inequality fiscally sustainable organizations the changing roles of the public and private sector in research input delivery systems marketing and low rates of agricultural growth in much of sub Saharan Africa Hunger John R. Butterly, Jack Shepherd, 2010-12-14 A timely and provocative look at the role political developments and the biology of nutrition play in world famine Farmers, Scientists, and Plant Breeding David Arthur Cleveland, Daniela Soleri, 2002-01-01 The purpose of this book is to examine the nature of and relationship between the knowledge of farmers and of scientists and how these can be best integrated in plant breeding

Maize and Grace James McCann, 1999 Securing the Harvest Joseph DeVries, Gary H. Toenniessen, 2001

Improved food security led by increased productivity among Africa's many small scale farmers has been the aim of significant national and international effort in recent decades. It has proved to be one of the most critical challenges facing humankind. This book grew out of a two year exploration conducted by the food security theme of The Rockefeller Foundation focusing on the potential for crop genetic improvement to contribute to food security among rural populations in Africa. It provides a critical assessment of the ways in which recent breakthroughs in biotechnology participatory plant breeding and seed systems can be broadly employed in developing and delivering more productive crop varieties in Africa's diverse agricultural environments. It also presents an analysis of current plant breeding and biotechnology strategies for the key crops in Africa including maize sorghum cowpea rice and cassava. The book will appeal to plant breeders biotechnologists and seed distributors as well as policy makers in the area of agricultural development.

African Studies Abstracts, 1999 The End of Chidyerano Elias Mandala, 2005-10-30

In this groundbreaking work Mandala argues that there is more to food studies than the analysis of famine that hunger exists only as an integral part of abundance. Basing his case on the history of southern Malawi he identifies several factors that explain why although notorious for its annual food deficits the region is not a land of frequent famine. By proving that seasonal hunger does not lead to famine in the absence of political crisis and showing in detail how rare events get their meaning from the everyday Mandela underscores the need to understand the daily and seasonal routines of food cultivation and eating in their own right Factors Influencing Relative Profitability of Alternative Crops in Kenya Gerald Gesicho Nyambane,2001
