The Impending Crisis of the South Hinton Rowan Helper,2020-07-20 Reproduction of the original The Impending Crisis of the South by Hinton Rowan Helper

The Politics of Reproduction Katherine Paugh,2017-04-21 Many British politicians planters and doctors attempted to exploit the fertility of Afro Caribbean women s bodies in order to ensure the economic success of the British Empire during the age of abolition Abolitionist reformers hoped that a homegrown labor force would end the need for the Atlantic slave trade By establishing the ubiquity of visions of fertility and subsequent economic growth during this time The Politics of Reproduction sheds fresh light on the oft debated question of whether abolitionism was understood by contemporaries as economically beneficial to the plantation colonies At the same time Katherine Paugh makes novel assertions about the importance of Britain s Caribbean colonies in the emergence of population as a political problem The need to manipulate the labor market on Caribbean plantations led to the creation of new governmental strategies for managing sex and childbearing such as centralized nurseries discouragement of extended breastfeeding and financial incentives for childbearing that have become commonplace in our modern world While assessing the politics of reproduction in the British Empire and its Caribbean colonies in relationship to major political events such as the Haitian Revolution the study also focuses in on the island of Barbados The remarkable story of an enslaved midwife and her family illustrates how plantation management policies designed to promote fertility affected Afro Caribbean women during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries The Politics of Reproduction draws on a wide variety of sources including debates in the British Parliament and the Barbados House of Assembly the records of Barbadian plantations tracts about plantation management published by doctors and plantation owners and missionary records related to the island of Barbados

Degrees of Freedom Rebecca J. Scott,2009-06-30 As Louisiana and Cuba emerged from slavery in the late nineteenth century each faced the question of what rights former slaves could claim Degrees of Freedom compares and contrasts these two societies in which slavery was destroyed by war and citizenship was redefined through social and political upheaval Both Louisiana and Cuba were rich in sugar plantations that depended on an enslaved labor force After abolition on both sides of the Gulf of Mexico ordinary people cane cutters and cigar workers laundresses and labor organizers forged alliances to protect and expand the freedoms they had won But by the beginning of the twentieth century Louisiana and Cuba diverged sharply in the meanings attributed to race and color in public life and in the boundaries placed on citizenship Louisiana had taken the path of disenfranchisement and state mandated racial segregation Cuba had enacted universal manhood suffrage and had seen the emergence of a transracial conception of the nation What might explain these differences Moving through the cane fields small farms and cities of Louisiana and Cuba Rebecca Scott skillfully observes the people places legislation and leadership that shaped how these societies adjusted to the abolition of slavery The two distinctive worlds also come together as Cuban exiles take refuge in New Orleans in the 1880s and black soldiers from Louisiana garrison small towns in eastern Cuba during the 1899 U S military occupation Crafting her narrative from the words and deeds of the actors themselves Scott brings to life the historical drama of race and citizenship in postemancipation societies *The Greville memoirs, ed. by H.
