After The Fact Two Countries Four Decades One Anthropologist:

After the Fact Clifford Geertz, 1996-10 In looking back on four decades of anthropology in the field Clifford Geertz creates a personal history that is also a retrospective reflection on developments in the human sciences amid political social and cultural changes in the world

The Anthropology of Islam Gabriele Marranci, 2008-03-01 An increasing number of people have questions about Islam and Muslims But how can we approach and study Islam after September 11th Which is the best methodology to understand an Islam that is changing in a globalized world The Anthropology of Islam argues that Islam today needs to be studied as a living religion through the observation of everyday Muslim life Drawing on extensive original fieldwork Marranci provides provocative analyses of Islam and its relation to issues such as identities politics culture power and gender The Anthropology of Islam is unprecedented in its innovative and challenging discussion about fieldwork among Muslims and its ethnographically based interpretations of contemporary aspects of Islam in a post September 11th society The book will appeal to those in anthropology and beyond who see and are interested in investigating the unsettled place of Islam in our multicultural society

Theory in Social and Cultural Anthropology R. Jon McGee, Richard L. Warms, 2013-08-28 Social and cultural anthropology and archaeology are rich subjects with deep connections in the social and physical sciences Over the past 150 years the subject matter and different theoretical perspectives have expanded so greatly that no single individual can command all of it Consequently both advanced students and professionals may be confronted with theoretical positions and names of theorists with whom they are only partially familiar if they have heard of them at all Students in particular are likely to turn to the web to find quick background information on theorists and theories However most web based information is inaccurate and or lacks depth Students and professionals need a source to provide a quick overview of a particular theory and theorist with just the basics the who what where how and why if you will In response SAGE Reference plans to publish the two volume Theory in Social and Cultural Anthropology An Encyclopedia Features Benefits Two volumes containing approximately 335 signed entries provide users with the most authoritative and thorough reference resource available on anthropology theory both in terms of breadth and depth of coverage To ease navigation between and among related entries a Reader's Guide groups entries thematically and each entry is followed by Cross References In the electronic version the Reader's Guide combines with the Cross References and a detailed Index to provide robust search and browse capabilities An appendix with a Chronology of Anthropology Theory allows students to easily chart directions and trends in thought and theory from early times to the present Suggestions for Further Reading at the end of each entry and a Master Bibliography at the end guide readers to sources for more detailed research and discussion

A Dictatorship of Relativism? Jeffrey M. Perl, 2007 In the last homily he gave before becoming Pope Benedict XVI Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger described modern life as ruled by a dictatorship of relativism which does not recognize anything as definitive and whose ultimate goal consists solely of satisfying the desires of one's own ego An eminent scholar familiar with the centuries old debates over relativism Ratzinger chose to oversimplify or even caricature a philosophical approach of great sophistication and antiquity His homily depicts the relativist as someone blown about by every wind of doctrine whereas the relativist sticks firmly to one argument that human knowledge is not absolute Gathering prominent intellectuals from disciplines most relevant to the controversy ethics theology political theory anthropology psychology cultural studies epistemology philosophy of science and classics this special double issue of Common Knowledge contests Ratzinger s denunciation of relativism One essay relates the arguments of Ratzinger to those of two other German scholars the conservative political theorist Ernst Wolfgang B ckenf rde and the liberal philosopher and sociologist J rgen Habermas since all three men assume that social order depends on the existence of doctrinal authority divine or otherwise The contributors here argue for an intellectual and social life free of the desire for an infantilizing authority One proposes that the Christian god is a relativist who prefers limitation and ambiguity another initially in agreement with Ratzinger about the danger relativism poses to faith and morals then argues that this danger is what makes relativism valuable The issue closes with the first English translation of an extract from a book on Catholic Jewish relations by Cardinal Carlo Maria Martini one of the Catholic Church s most progressive figures Contributors David Bloor Daniel Boyarin Mary Baine Campbell Lorraine Daston Arnold I Davidson John Forrester Kenneth J Gergen Simon Goldhill Jeffrey F Hamburger Julia Kristeva Carlo Maria Cardinal Martini Christopher Norris Joseph Cardinal Ratzinger Richard Shusterman Barbara Herrnstein Smith Jeffrey Stout Gianni Vattimo

Narrative Inquiry D. Jean Clandinin, F. Michael Connelly, 2004-08-13 The literature on narrative inquiry has been until now widely scattered and theoretically incomplete Clandinin and Connelly have created a major tour de force This book is lucid fluid beautifully argued and rich in examples Students will find a wealth of arguments to support their research and teaching faculty will find everything they need to teach narrative inquiry theory and methods Yvonna S Lincoln professor Department of Educational Administration Texas A M University Understanding experience as lived and told stories also known as narrative inquiry has gained popularity and credence in qualitative research Unlike more traditional methods narrative inquiry successfully captures personal and human dimensions that cannot be quantified into dry facts and numerical data In this definitive guide Jean Clandinin and Michael Connelly draw from more than twenty years of field experience to show how narrative inquiry can be used in educational and social science research Tracing the origins of narrative inquiry in the social sciences they offer new and practical ideas for conducting fieldwork composing field notes and conveying research results Throughout the book stories and examples reveal a wide range of narrative methods Engaging and easy to read Narrative Inquiry is a practical resource from experts who have long pioneered the use of narrative in qualitative research

Dou Donggo Justice Peter Just, 2001-01-17 This study of justice and morality among the Dou Donggo a highland people in Indonesia offers an innovative approach to understanding the workings of law and dispute settlement in small communities Peter Just argues that the operation of any legal system is best understood in the context of its moral ontology the fundamental culture assumptions that the people have about the nature of the world the beings that inhabit it and their relationships to one another as well as ideas about causation liability etc The author takes Dou Donggo beliefs in evil spirits and tutelary gods theories of conception and bodily humors and the magical prowess of judges who are also healers and links them to the guiding principles and day to day operation of a consensual system of justice The first part of the book provides contextualizing material on current debates about ethnography and the anthropology of law a lively account of the author's field experiences and a history of the Dou Donggo Two subsequent chapters use anecdotes and examples to explicate the constitution of the village as a moral community and the moral ontology on which that community is based Concluding chapters provide a thick description of three real disputes witnessed by the author

Lemov,2000 Remembering Papua New Guinea William C. Clarke,2003 The Maring people of Papua New Guinea had their first contact with a European just six years before geographer and anthropologist William C Clarke arrived to spend a year living with them in 1964 By the 1990s after years of storage in tropical climes the photographs Clarke took in PNG had become fungus ridden and faded Computer technology was used to restore the photographs a process that brought back not just visual images of tropical plants red soil and skin made shiny with oil but the smell of moist earth and banana leaves singeing on hot rocks Clarke was transported to a half forgotten world a world he brings back to life in Remembering PNG in which he reflects on the moment captured in each image Looking at his photographs after more than thirty years Clarke says I felt again the warm damp air remembered struggling up the steep muddy tracks heard the yodeling cries with which people communicated over long distances Even the deliciously unique taste of pandanus sauce mixed with crisp young fern leaves came back to me In the book Clarke uses memory and imaginations his observations from the field and even poetry to create a narrative that is as rich and engaging as his superb images
