Care Services For Later Life Transformations And Critiques:

Care Services for Later Life A. M. Warnes, Lorna Warren, Michael Nolan, 2000-01-01 What are the implications of current economic social and political trends in Britain for older people Social and demographic changes have led to traditional areas of welfare being transformed The contributors to this book take a critical look at the current situation and assess the implications for future practice They debate the assumptions and values underlying established welfare programmes and consider the case for change as growing demands put health and social services under increasing pressure The second part of the book discusses specific areas in detail ranging from the organisation of effective domiciliary social care to the impact of new technologies on older people s lives This book provides a comprehensive and practical overview of the provision of services for older people and will be a valuable and thought provoking resource for anyone involved in caring for and supporting them IBSS: Sociology: 2002 Vol.52 Compiled by the British Library of Political and Economic Science, 2004-03-01 First published in 1952 the International Bibliography of the Social Sciences anthropology economics political science and sociology is well established as a major bibliographic reference for students researchers and librarians in the social sciences worldwide Key features Authority Rigorous standards are applied to make the IBSS the most authoritative selective bibliography ever produced Articles and books are selected on merit by some of the world s most expert librarians and academics Breadth today the IBSS covers over 2000 journals more than any other comparable resource The latest monograph publications are also included International Coverage the IBSS reviews scholarship published in over 30 languages including publications from Eastern Europe and the developing world User friendly organization all non English titles are word sections Extensive author subject and place name indexes are provided in both English and French Place your standing order now for the 2002 volumes of the the IBSS Anthropology 2002 Vol 48 December 2003 234x156 Hb 0 415 32634 6 195 00 Economics 2002 Vol 51 December 2003 234x156 Hb 0 415 32635 4 195 00 Political Science 2002 Vol 51 December 2003 234x156 Hb 0 415 32636 2 195 00 Sociology 2002 Vol 52 December 2003 234x156 Hb 0 415 32637 0 195 00

EBOOK: Working With Older People And Their Families Mike Nolan, Nolan Davies, Gordon Grant, 2001-02-16 Addressing the needs of older people and their carers is an essential element of both policy and practice in the fields of health and social care Recent developments promote a partnership and empowerment model in which the notion of person centred care figures prominently However what person centred care means and how it can be achieved is far from clear Working with Older People and their Families combines extensive reviews of specialist literatures with new empirical data in an attempt at a synthesis of themes about making a reality of person centred care Uniquely it seeks to unite the perspectives of older people family and professional carers in promoting a genuinely holistic approach to the challenges of an ageing society Working with Older People and their Families is recommended reading for students on health related courses such as nursing medicine and the therapies It is also of relevance to students of social work and social gerontology researchers managers and policy makers      Working with Older People John Harris, Denise Tanner, 2007-10-11 Working with older people has become an increasingly important part of social work education and practice Whether studying community care adult services human growth and development or social work processes and interventions this book will be a vital source of information and help Working with Older People provides a framework of knowledge skills and values pertinent to qualifying social work courses and the new post qualifying award in Social Work with Adults including discussion of ideas about human development and theories of older age legislation social policy and social welfare skills for working with older people assessment and care planning partnership working Written by two experienced educators and practitioners this key text facilitates individual or group learning through features such as objectives for each chapter case studies and further reading suggestions There are numerous activities throughout the book and the final chapter contains pointers to consider for all of the activities It will be essential reading for social work students and qualified social workers      Evidence Informed Nursing with Older People Debbie Tolson, Jo Booth, Irene Schofield, 2011-02-04 Evidence Informed Nursing with Older People is an essential text for nursing students and registered nurses working with older people who are seeking to make connections between theory evidence and value based gerontological practice The rapidly rising aging global population requires that more attention is given to the needs and requirements of older people This textbook is a key resource for nursing students and registered nurses working with older people who wish to improve their practice Evidence Informed Nursing with Older People takes a unique case study approach with individual chapters presenting nursing practice based case studies on some of the most common areas of care faced by nurses working around the world with older people Each case study illustrates the connections between practice theory evidence and values User friendly and accessible this textbook includes key points reflection activities test points and perspectives from older people throughout Key features An up to date treatment of the nursing contribution to key geriatric syndromes International expert contributions from the UK Sweden Switzerland Australia and China An evidence based case study approach to the care of older people      Social Policy Review 19 Karen Clarke, Tony Maltby, Patricia Kennett, 2007-07-11 The latest Social Policy Review has been given a new editorial lease of life and has been re organized to reflect more closely key developments in the UK and internationally It provides readers with up to date information about developments and changes in core UK social policy areas      Transforming Mental Health Services Howard H. Goldman, Jeffrey A. Buck, Kenneth S. Thompson, 2009-06-26 This compendium of 17 articles addresses the goals set forth by the President s New Freedom Commission on Mental Health in its 2003 report Achieving the Promise Transforming Mental Health Care in America The report represents the first time since the Carter Administration that such a high level group evaluated U S mental health care The report painted a dismal picture of the nation s mental health system saying the system was so broken that it was beyond simple repair The Commission said that current services focused on managing disabilities rather than helping patients achieve a meaningful life in their communities

It also stated that mental health service providers ignored the preferences of consumers and their families. The articles in Transforming Mental Health Services Implementing the Federal Agenda for Change originally published between 2006 and 2009 in Psychiatric Services journal of the American Psychiatric Association offer recommendations to assist adults with serious mental illness and children with serious emotional disturbances. They include a series of reforms in which the emphasis is on recovery as an achievable goal and the need for a person centered orientation in service delivery. There is also discussion of the reasons many service providers resist using a recovery orientation and how this can be remedied.

Transforming Mental Health Services Implementing the Federal Agenda for Change consists of updates of papers written by the Commission's subcommittees addressing issues fundamental to those living with mental illness. It is organized into four sections. The first focuses on the interface between mental health and general health and on employment, housing, and Medicaid financing. The second continues addressing financing and Medicaid as well as issues related to school mental health, recovery, transformation of data systems, and acceleration of research. The third includes reports from four states with transformation initiatives designed to ensure that consumers have a strong voice in the development of recovery oriented services. The final section describes progress five years after the President's Commission Report and concludes with a proposal by the current director of the Center for Mental Health Services for a public health model of mental health care for the 21st century. This compilation of well researched and well written articles offers an excellent resource for frontline care providers, facility administrators, and advocates. It serves as an equally valuable resource for state policy makers who wish to present a convincing case that change is happening and that the recommendations can be translated into effective policies. Although consumers and their families will receive support for their perception that service providers ignore their needs, they will also be encouraged that change for the better is coming to the U.S. mental health care system.

Nursing Times,
Nursing Mirror, 2001      Oxford Textbook of Primary Medical Care Roger Jones (Prof.), 2005      Social Policy in Ageing Societies Alan Walker, Gerhard Naegele, 2009-01-15. This collection offers a fascinating comparative analysis of two very different approaches to social policy on ageing. By analyzing the different foundations and systems established by Beveridge in Britain and Bismarck in Germany, this book provides a well constructed and truly comparative perspective on a range of key issues. Each chapter is co-authored by a leading German and a British figure in the field, allowing for a unique insight into the differing policies.

The Journal of Multicultural Nursing & Health, 2000      Home Care for Ageing Populations Martha Doyle, Virpi Timonen, 2007. This book presents an up to date comparative analysis of formal domiciliary care systems in Denmark, Germany, and the United States. It makes an important contribution to the debate about the future care of older people and provides an insightful analysis of the provision of publicly funded domiciliary care services from a cross national perspective. The areas addressed include classifications of welfare state and social care regimes, the changing role of the state as a provider and purchaser of social care services, the re-commodification of the care labour force, incentives for informal care givers via public financing and social security and the introduction of notions of consumer power into care policies

Changes in Functional Limitations and Survival Among the Elderly in Taiwan Zachary Zimmer,Linda G. Martin,Ming-Cheng Chang,2002 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,2002-02 Measuring Family Support in Europe Catherine Bonvalet,2007 Rapid demographic and social transformation in Europe poses challenges for intergenerational relations Research shows that family ties remain strong but opinions about the role of generations appear to be changing

Growing Older in World Cities Victor Rodwin,Michael K. Gusmano,2006 Population aging often provokes fears of impending social security deficits uncontrollable medical expenditures and transformations in living arrangements but public policy could also stimulate social innovations These issues are typically studied at the national level yet they must be resolved where most people live in diverse neighborhoods in cities New York London Paris and Tokyo are the four largest cities among the wealthiest most developed nations of the world The essays commissioned for this volume compare what it is like to grow older in these cities with respect to health care quality of life housing and long term care The contributors look beyond aggregate national data to highlight the importance of how local authorities implement policies

Social Work and Direct Payments Jon Glasby,Rosemary Littlechild,2002 The 1996 Community Care Direct Payments Act came into force in 1 April 1997 empowering social services departments to make cash payments to some service users in lieu of direct service provision Social work and direct payments guides readers through the issues at stake in this fundamental area of practice The book summarises and builds on current knowledge and research about direct payments in the UK and considers developments in other European countries It identifies good practice in the area and explores the implications of direct payments both for service users and for social work staff

Gender Politics Surya Monro,2005 New edition of a classic work exploring the philosophical justifications for our penal system
