Area Array Interconnection Handbook Karl J. Puttlitz, Paul A. Totta, 2012-12-06 Microelectronic packaging has been recognized as an important enabler for the solid state revolution in electronics which we have witnessed in the last third of the twentieth century Packaging has provided the necessary external wiring and interconnection capability for transistors and integrated circuits while they have gone through their own spectacular revolution from discrete device to gigascale integration At IBM we are proud to have created the initial simple concept of flip chip with solder bump connections at a time when a better way was needed to boost the reliability and improve the manufacturability of semiconductors The basic design which was chosen for SLT Solid Logic Technology in the 1960s was easily extended to integrated circuits in the 70s and VLSI in the 80s and 90s Three I O bumps have grown to 3000 with even more anticipated for the future The package families have evolved from thick film SLT to thin film metallized ceramic to co fired multi layer ceramic A later family or ceramics with matching expansivity to sili con and copper internal wiring was developed as a predecessor of the chip interconnection revolution in copper multilevel submicron wiring Powerful server packages have been developed in which the combined chip and package copper wiring exceeds a kilometer All of this was achieved with the constant objective of minimizing circuit delays through short efficient interconnects

Personal Adornment and the Construction of Identity Hannah V. Mattson, 2021-06-09 Objects of adornment have been a subject of archaeological historical and ethnographic study for well over a century Within archaeology personal ornaments have traditionally been viewed as decorative embellishments associated with status and wealth materializations of power relations and social strategies or markers of underlying social categories such as those related to gender class and ethnic affiliation Personal Adornment and the Construction of Identity seeks to understand these artefacts not as signals of steady pre existing cultural units and relations but as important components in the active and contingent constitution of identities Drawing on contemporary scholarship on materiality and relationality in archaeological and social theory this book uses one genre of material culture items of bodily adornment to illustrate how humans and objects construct one another Providing case studies spanning 10 countries three continents and more than 9 000 years of human history the authors demonstrate the myriad and dynamic ways personal ornaments were intertwined with embodied practice and identity performativity the creation and remaking of social memories and relational collections of persons materials and practices in the past The authors careful analyses of production methods and composition curation heirlooming and reworking decorative attributes and iconography position within assemblages and depositional context illuminate the varied material and relational axes along which objects of adornment contained social value and meaning When paired with the broad temporal and geographic scope collectively represented by these studies we gain a deeper appreciation for the subtle but vital roles these items played in human lives
