Art Of John Coburn:

The Art of John Coburn Alan Rozen, John Coburn, 1979 John Coburn Nadine Amadio, John Coburn, 1988 As a painter James Coburn has refined and intensified a unique personal language of symbols for his work Within his immediately recognizable and highly individual form of abstract expressionism he has developed a compressed emotional power reminiscent of Mark Rothko Acknowledged as a leading painter and an elder statesman in the Australian arts Queensland born John Coburn is represented in all Australian State galleries and many overseas collections including the Vatican Museum He has also achieved international recognition for his magnificent Sydney Opera House Curtains of the Sun and Moon and his Seven Days of Creation tapestries hanging in the Kennedy Centre Washington Coburn John Coburn, 2008

John Coburn Lou Klepac, John Coburn, 2003-01-01 A great artist may be enabled late in life to discover and reveal to himself and to us the deepest secrets of his art For over three decades from the late 1950s onwards John Coburn's art impressed the widest public both in Australia and overseas His prolific output of paintings prints and tapestries expressed an apparently endless artistic imagination Over much of the same period he was a highly effective art educator But that brilliant career was abruptly broken into at the height of success by personal tragedy and life threatening illness resulting in serious physical disability The artist's life and work up to that rupture has been the subject of several studies but his subsequent deepening maturity and the stream of subtle masterpieces of the master of colour call for new recognition and appreciation To penetrate into Coburn's development in these years the author proceeds through an investigation of the mysterious nature of colour itself the determining events and influences of the artist's life including the early impact of the Australian landscape and his fascination with the work of painters such as Miro Matisse and Rothko the culmination of his refined technique and colour experience in the ground breaking tapestries and the impact of crisis in the mid 1980s Returning now to the theme of colour and the artist we are shown how unremitting artistic striving and the impacts of life coalesce in the creative impulses which release the magnificent late works The book admits us to the artist's private studio to join as onlookers in the production of these haunting works The book contains 147 colour plates as well as documentary photographs and comprehensive biographical notes and exhibition lists John Coburn John Coburn, John Coburn John Coburn, John Coburn , John Coburn John Coburn, Peter Skrzynecki, 2000 Recent Works by John Coburn Kym Bonython's Hungry Horse Art Gallery, 1966 John Coburn John Coburn, Lou Klepac, Louise Denoon, 1997 John Coburn John Coburn, 2000 John Coburn John Coburn, Lou Klepac, 1999 John Coburn John Coburn, 2002 Historic Silver of the Colonies and Its Makers Francis Hill Bigelow, 1917 "Australian Art and Artists in London, 1950-1965" Simon Pierse, 2017-07-05 Subtle and wide ranging in its account this study explores the impact of Australian art in Britain in the two decades following the end of World War II and preceding the Swinging Sixties In a transitional period of decolonization in Britain Australian painting was briefly seized upon as a dynamic and reinvigorating force in contemporary art and a group of Australian artists settled in London where they held centre stage with group and solo exhibitions in the capital's most prestigious galleries. The book traces the key influences of Sir Kenneth Clark, Bernard Smith and Bryan Robertson in their various and varying roles as patrons, ideologues and entrepreneurs for Australian art, as well as the self-definition and interaction of the artists themselves. Simon Pierse interweaves multiple issues of the period into a cohesive historical narrative, including the mechanics of the British art world, the limited and frustrating cultural scene of 1950s Australia and the conservative influence of Australian government bodies. Publishing for the first time archival material, letters and photographs previously unavailable to scholars either in Britain or Australia, this book demonstrates how the work of expatriate Australian artists living in London constructed a distinct vision of Australian identity for a foreign market.
