Abstract Color Photographs Grobman:

Reinventing Jewish Art in the Age of Multiple Modernities Lola Kantor-Kazovsky, 2022-12-05 Can studying an artist's migration enable the reconfiguration of art history in a new and global mode Michail Grobman's odyssey in search of a contemporary idiom of Jewish art led him to cross the borders of political blocs and to observe, absorb, and confront different patterns of modernism in his work. His provocative art, his rich archives and collections, his essays and personal diaries all reveal this complexity and open up a new perspective on post-World War II twentieth-century modernism and on the interconnected functioning of its local models.

□□□□□□ Arthur Grossman, 1996 Arthur Grossman finds most of the images for his photographs in the weathered surfaces of small marine vessels dry-docked in Pacific Northwest boatyards. His ability to coax evocative form from chance encounters with found objects places his work in the intersection between pictorial and documentary photography; his images are both an unmanipulated record of reality and subjective expression.

Wolfgang Tillmans Wolfgang Tillmans, Dominic Eichler, 2011 Apart from his seminal portraits, party images, and still lifes that gained him recognition in the nineties, Wolfgang Tillmans in 1968 in Remscheid long ago began dealing with more abstract motifs. In the past decade he has consistently developed his approach to create totally non-representational works that examine themes such as the process of exposure and image supports. From the delicate veils of color in Blushes and Freischwimmer or the sculptural paper drops made of rolled-up photographic paper to the colorfully compelling works of the Lighter series, the photograph itself essentially divorced from its reproductive function becomes the objet d'art as the book here designed by the artist himself impressively demonstrates Publisher description Abstract Photography #3 in Extreme Color Rolf McEwen, 2019-03-20 This collection of photographs is rendered in bold saturated color Some are abstract and some are not but the shapes and colors are enjoyable to observe

Abstract Photography in Radical Color Rolf McEwen, 2018-08-09 This collection of abstract photographs in bold saturated color attempts to display what is obvious while at the same time being obscure The viewer cannot be absolutely certain what is displayed It's intriguing to observe combinations of color shape and form It's challenging to be kept guessing with regard to what is visible

The Dawn of the Color Photograph David Okuefuna, 2008 In 1909 the French banker and philanthropist Albert Kahn launched a monumentally ambitious project to produce a color photographic record of human life on Earth An internationalist and pacifist Kahn believed that he could use the new autochrome the world's first portable true color photographic process to create a global photographic archive that would promote cross cultural understanding and peace Over the next twenty years he sent a group of photographers to more than fifty countries around the world amassing more than 72 000 images Until recently his collection was all but forgotten Now a century after he began his Archives of the Planet project this book richly illustrated in color throughout and the BBC series it follows are bringing Kahn's dazzling early twentieth century pictures to a wide audience for the first time and putting color into what we usually think of as a monochrome world Kahn's photographers captured times places and people we simply do not expect to see in color photographs They documented age old cultures on the brink of being changed forever by war modernization and Westernization recording the last years of Ireland's traditional Celtic villages and the late days of the Austro-Hungarian and Ottoman empires They photographed First World War soldiers in their trenches as well as the postwar celebrations in London In the course of their travels they also took the earliest color photographs in countries as varied as Vietnam and Brazil Mongolia and Norway Benin and the United States After being financially ruined in the Great Depression Kahn was forced to bring his project to a premature end but today his collection of early color photographs is recognized as one of the world's most important The Dawn of the Color Photograph makes it easy to see why The Eighth Art, etc. (A life of color photography). Victor Keppler, 1939
