

Chapter 1: Accounting in Action

I. Identify the activities and users associated with accounting.

1. Three Activities of Accounting

- A. Identification (Identifies the economic events relevant to its business)
- B. Recording (Records those events in order to provide a history of business's financial activities)
- Recording consists of keeping a systematic, chronological diary of events, measured in dollars and cents.
 - Bookkeeping usually involves only the recording of economic events.
- C. Communication (Communicates the collected information to interested users by means of accounting reports)
- Accounting reports = Financial Statements (FS)
 - Such data are reported in the aggregate. By presenting the recorded data in the aggregate, the accounting process simplifies a multitude of transactions and makes a series of activities understandable and meaningful.
 - A vital element is the accountant's ability to analyze and interpret the reported information.
 - Analysis involves use of ratios, percentages, graphs, and charts to highlight significant financial trends and relationships.
 - Interpretation involves explaining the uses, meaning, and limitations of reported data.
