

DELIGHT

BY AMY LUDWIG VANDERWATER

Nature does not have
a lost and found table
for summer feathers
and so
the woodpecker
who dropped
this black and white
piece of himself
has let it go forever.
A bit of beauty
a spotted charm
on the sidewalk
for free.
Found a feather.
Finder keepers.
Lucky me.

Butchers on the Moon Jack Norton, 2026-02-19

Butchers on the Moon was originally published as a 40-page manifesto of sorts from an impossibly young poet, songwriter, and filmmaker from Minnesota named Jack Norton. Sold mostly at his concerts, only one copy of the original chapbook is known to exist today and can be found in the archives at the University of Mississippi in Oxford. Jack burned all his writings—poems, songs, short stories, and a novel—from before 2008, so those lost gems are a true treasure. This expanded edition includes several additional poems written in the same period but not included in the original publication. An unpublished chapbook manuscript, The Well Ran Dry, was recently found in the archives of the editor of Fugawee Bird Press, publisher of the original Butchers on the Moon chapbook. These are also included within this edition.

The Hammered Dulcimer Lisa Williams, 1998

Lisa Williams's award-winning collection of poems is infused with what John Hollander calls a "guarded wonder." A poet of unique vision, she seems always to be looking at the world with special attention to the experience of the senses. In addition, Williams is concerned with epistemology—the how of seeing. And it is perhaps this quality of attention that informs her interest in the formulations of poetry itself in its constructed dimension. Her control of the line of rhythmic possibilities of structures, both formal and free, is evident in every poem. Together, Lisa Williams's original voice and her poetic finesse allow her to create those harmonies of wonder evoked by the very instrument, the hammered dulcimer, that gives her collection its name.

Uncle Charlie's Poems; Mirthful and Otherwise Charles Noel Douglas, 2013-09

This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1906 edition. Excerpt: I can't see because I never heard of Sneezers and I don't know who he was. Oh, knowledge is the thing I want; it's knowledge that I lack. But I can't learn while boys are chalking monkeys on my back. It's impossible to study hard, no matter how you try. When you have to sit most all the day on tacks ten inches high. And no wonder I'm a dunce and all my brains are in a wreck. When boys all day put bumblebees and

waspes down my neck So Washington and Lincoln I can't imitate because I never heard their names afore and I don't know who they was THE LITTLE BIRD THAT'S ALWAYS TELLING MA VE had a present from my pa a dandy new air gun And now I'm going out of doors to have no end of fun The neighbors cats are safe from me I've got no quarrel with them The rabbits squirrels chipmunks hares to death I don't condemn Wolves Indians mountain lions coyotes bear and deer Can look into the muzzle of my gun and have no fear But I have sworn fierce vengeance and am on the trail ha ha Of the horrid spiteful little bird that's always telling Ma How happy would have been my life how gay and free from care Had Nature made no little birds to navigate the air What whippings I would have been spared the lash that fiercely stung Had one mean tell tale bird had but the sense to hold its tongue For since I can remember that's some eight long troubled years That horrid bird has spied on me and oh the bitter tears That tell tale wretch has caused me for no matter what I do That little bird has told my Ma before the day is through If we had birds in all the rooms in cellar attic too I shouldn't wonder then if Ma of all my actions knew But all we've got's a parrot and since the day Pa came Crash

The Kneeling Camel Anna Temple, 1920

The Fall and Rise of Cushan Jeannette F. Love, 2015-07-14 Excerpt from The Fall and Rise of Cushan And Other Poems The Fall and Rise of Cushan and Other Poems Daybreak 'Tis dark but streaks of the fair morning's light Rift the shadows that reigned o'er the realms of night The sable browed queen descends from her throne With her glittering train and now hastes to be gone A rustle creeps through the oak and the fir A chirp sets the reeds and rushes astir The glad day is breaking the orient glows With a thousand rich tintings of amber and rose The last truant star now fades on our sight The cricket the piper that cheered the lone night Creeps away to this nest the drowsy cuckoo Shakes from his pinions bright drops of dew Robin awakes with a song in his throat The lark to his mate trills his musical notes The herds awake and the lord of the fold Drowsily shakes his great coat of wool Steals a murmur a gurgle the woodland along A twitter a warble a ripple of song The sun hastens up the ethereal way And the fair morn dissolves in the bright beams of day

The Man on the Hill Top and Other Poems Arthur Davison Ficke, 2009-12 PREFACE THE Author of this very practical treatise on Scotch Loch Fishing desires clearly that it may be of use to all who had it He does not pretend to have written anything new but to have attempted to put what he has to say in as readable a form as possible Everything in the way of the history and habits of fish has been studiously avoided and technicalities have been used as sparingly as possible The writing of this book has afforded him pleasure in his leisure moments and that pleasure would be much increased if he knew that the perusal of it would create any bond of sympathy between himself and the angling community in general This section is interleaved with blank sheets for the readers notes The Author need hardly say that any suggestions addressed to the case of the publishers will meet with consideration in a future edition We do not pretend to write or enlarge upon a new subject Much has been said and written and well said and written too on the art of fishing but loch fishing has been rather looked upon as a second rate performance and to dispel this idea is one of the objects for which this present treatise has been written Far be it from us to say anything against fishing lawfully practised in any form but many pent up in our large towns will bear us out when we say that on the whole a days loch fishing is the most convenient One great matter is that the loch fisher is dependent on nothing but enough wind to curl the water and on a large loch it is very seldom that a dead calm prevails all day and can make his arrangements for a day weeks beforehand whereas the stream fisher is dependent for a good take on the state of the water and however pleasant and easy it may be for one living near the banks of a good trout stream or river it is quite another matter to arrange for a days river fishing if one is looking forward to a holiday at a date some weeks ahead Providence may favour the expectant angler with a good day and the water in order but experience has taught most of us that the good days are in the minority and that as is the case with our rapid running streams such as many of our northern streams are the water is either too large or too small unless as previously remarked you live near at hand and can catch it at its best A common belief in regard to loch fishing is that the tyro and the experienced angler have nearly the same chance in fishing the one from the stern and the other from the bow of the same boat Of all the absurd beliefs as to loch fishing this is one of the most absurd Try it Give the tyro either end of the boat he likes give him a cast of ally flies he may fancy or even a cast similar to those which a crack may be using and if he catches one for every three the other has he may consider himself very lucky Of course there are lochs where the fish are not abundant and a beginner may come across as many as an older fisher but we speak of lochs where there are fish to be caught and where each has a fair chance Again it is said that the boatman has as much to do with catching trout in a loch as the angler Well we dont deny that In an untried loch it is necessary to have the guidance of a good boatman but the same argument holds good as to stream fishing
