Classic Maya Pottery at Dumbarton Oaks Dumbarton Oaks, Michael D. Coe, 1975 Classic Maya Pottery at Dumbarton Oaks Dumbarton Oaks Chamber Orchestra, 1975 The Ceramic Sequence of the Holmul Region, Guatemala Michael G. Callaghan, Nina Neivens de Estrada, 2016-11-29 Sequencing the ceramics in Guatemala's Holmul region has the potential to answer important questions in Maya archaeology. The Holmul region, located in northeastern Guatemala between the central Peten lowlands to the west and the Belize River Valley to the east, encompasses roughly ten square kilometers and contains at least seven major archaeological sites, including two large ceremonial and administrative centers, Holmul and Cival. The Ceramic Sequence of the Holmul Region, Guatemala, illustrates the archaeological ceramics of these prehistoric Maya sites in a study that provides a theoretical starting point for answering questions related to mid and high level issues of archaeological method and theory in the Maya area and larger Mesoamerica. The researchers' ceramic sequence, which uses the method of type variety mode classification, spans approximately 1,600 years and encompasses nine ceramic complexes and one sub-complex. The highly illustrated book is formatted as a catalog of the types of ceramics in a chronological framework. The authors undertook this study with three objectives: to create a temporal-spatial framework for archaeological sites in the politically important Holmul region; to relate this framework to other Maya sites; and to use type variety mode data to address specific questions of ancient Maya social practice and process during each ceramic complex. Specific questions addressed in this volume include the adoption of pottery as early as 800 BC at the sites of Holmul and Cival during the Middle Preclassic period; the creation of the first orange polychrome pottery; the ideological and political influence from sites in Mexico during the Early Classic period; and the demographic and political collapse of lowland Maya polities between AD 800 and AD 830.

Pottery of Prehistoric Honduras Marilyn Beaudry-Corbett, John S. Henderson, 1993-07-01 The contributors to this volume have addressed issues of systematics in pottery analysis that perplex archaeologists wherever they work. These issues are not approached by setting forth rules or by adopting a how-to approach but rather by example, as the various researchers give the background to their work, explain their methods, and present the classified pottery from their investigations. An in-process statement of what we are learning from pottery about chronology, interactions, and the nature of regional cultural development, this volume can be used by archaeologists working in southern Mesoamerica and northern Central America who will find it valuable for comparative analysis and by archaeologists dealing with issues of systematics in pottery analysis in different culture areas but facing many of the same problems that researchers do in Honduras.
