Teaching Civic Literacy Projects Shira Eve Epstein, 2014-09-01 This practical resource shows teachers how to enact robust forms of civic education in today s schools Both instructive and thought provoking it will inspire teachers to craft curricula addressing a wide range of genuine civic problems such as those related to racial discrimination environmental damage and community health Dividing civic literacy projects into three key phases problem identification problem exploration and action the author provides concrete examples from upper elementary middle and high school classrooms to illustrate and analyze how each phase can unfold The projects ultimately provide opportunities for youth to participate in civic life while they develop essential literacy skills associated with reading writing and speaking The final chapter outlines a curriculum design process that will result in coherent and meaningful civic literacy projects driven by clear goals It includes practical tools such as a sample unit timeline an assessment chart and student worksheets that can be modified for immediate use

Building a Working Policy for Distance Education Connie L.

Dillon,1997-11-30 Distance education offers the potential to further the mission of the community college in significant ways However the practice of education will not change without corresponding changes in our fundamental views of teaching and learning as these are reflected in the total of our state federal and institutional policies In many ways the community college offers other sectors of higher education a vision for the future This issue of New Directions for Community Colleges presents some of the policy issues confronting higher education in the age of distance learning and discusses the implications of these issues for the community college This is the 99th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Community Colleges For more information on the series please see the Journals and Periodicals section Books in Print Supplement ,2002
