

Early American Charm, Puritanical Simplicity, in This Suite

The Pennsbury

Near Philadelphia, in the 1680's, William Penn ordered his dwelling house, the Pennsbury, to be built. Evidently building a house required time in those days for it was not until 1682 that we find him buying his furniture. Among other articles of household use he ordered a dining room suite of beautiful simplicity. Such a group is reproduced in the Pennsbury and the simple Early American charm has been worked into a setting suitable for the modern dining room. The table is of the golden or mahogany type; the chairs are reproductions of the early Pennsylvania ladder back. All panels, tops, fronts and sides are of heavy rough laminated construction. Tops and fronts of selected curly black veneer, and sides of plain birch veneer. Posts, parting rails, stretchers and exposed solid parts are of birch. White oak interiors are waxed smooth and completely dustproofed. There is a waxed white oak silver tray in the buffet. This tray is made without a nail and has shaped tray handles and removable silver lining. Improved drawer slides have accurately machined runners shaped for perfect fit and easy operation. New drawer case construction insures strength and durability. Chair seats are of double strength webbing and covered in either Brown or Red Leather. Hardware is cast brass in Stratford Silver finish. Suite is smoothly finished in Old Cherry.
