The KAUST School

Introduction

Air Quality Action Plan (AQAP) is a living document and a guide that is intended as a communication and a decision-making tool in the event of poor air quality as it relates to outdoor workers,<sup>1</sup> and school-led outdoor activities<sup>2</sup>. This AQAP is department specific, and details various school-led outdoor activities being directed by The KAUST School (TKS) that might be impacted in the event of poor air quality such as sandstorms.

Adverse air quality events can occur anytime and can sustain for an unknown period. Therefore, it is prudent to define actions needed whenever AQI (Air Quality Index) levels reach or exceed certain levels to avoid or minimize student and staff exposure to poor air quality. The primary objective of the AQAP is to create a decision-making process that is transparent, consistent and provides health-based protective measures. AQI that is being issued regularly by the Health, Safety and Environment (HSE) Department will be key a trigger point, coupled with TKS internal communication processes.

AQI

The AQI is a standard approach for monitoring how clean or polluted our local air might be. It aligns with a pre-defined range of AQI values (Table 1 below) with potential health effects that some people might experience within a few hours or even days after an air pollution event. Think of the AQI as a meter stick that runs from 0 to 500. The higher the AQI value, the greater the level of air pollution and the greater the health concern. For example, an AQI value of 50 represents good air quality with little or no potential to affect public health, while an AQI value over 300 represents air quality so hazardous that everyone may experience serious effects.

Good (0 to 50)	Moderate (51 to 100)	Unhealthy for Sensitive Groups (101 to 150)	Unhealthy (151 to 200)	Very Unhealthy (201 to 300)	Hazardous (301 and higher)
-------------------	-------------------------	--	---------------------------	--------------------------------	-------------------------------

HSE manages KAUST Weather stations that use industry accepted methodology to monitor air quality within KAUST and publishes AQI every fifteen minutes through KAUST Weather web-page.

Based on historical data, the level of AQI that warrants an activation of AQAP (unhealthy, very unhealthy and hazardous) have only been associated with sandstorms that cause high particulate levels in the ambient air, and this has been about 3% over the entire year. This occurrence level could change over the years due to number of reasons including frequent or less sandstorms, or man-made pollution sources. KAUST Weather webpage is your local resource for managing this AQAP.
