Never Marry a Woman with Big Feet Mineke Schipper, Wilhelmina Janneke Josepha Schipper, 2003-01-01. In this study the author analyses similarities, differences, and contradictions in the cultural norms about gender expressed in proverbs she has found in oral and written sources from over 150 countries. Grouping the proverbs into categories as the female body, love, sex, childbirth, and the female power, the author examines shared patterns in ideas about women and how men see them.

[While interwoven echoes. Drip into a hybrid body ] ; an exhibition about sound, performance and sculpture Rita Ackermann, Dave Allen, Agathe Snow, 2006. In the mid-twentieth century innovators like John Cage, Yoko Ono, and George Brecht brought fine arts and music together in that convergence, performance and the use of the body gave new meanings to both elements. More recently, beginning in the 1990s, a new round of fusion has begun as new forms of presentation in the fine arts have absorbed pop and DJ culture and other aural elements into electronic and multimedia works. This use of sound has precipitated a hybridization of performance art and sculpture and the emergence of new forms where, in some cases, sound can lose its liminal status and become self-sufficient. While Interwoven Echoes: Drip into a Hybrid Body investigates these developments through sound sculptures and other related work from artists including Rita Ackermann and Agathe Snow, Chris Cunningham and Bjork, and Banksy.
