The Crowdfunding Revolution: How to Raise Venture Capital Using Social Media Kevin Lawton, Dan Marom, 2013. Explains how the explosive growth of connectivity via physical and social technologies is changing the nature of venture capital funding by drawing small sums of money from a large number of sources rather than the traditional method of getting large commitments from a few sources. Illinois Reading Council Journal, 2015. Handbook on E-marketing for Tourism Destinations Peter Varlow, 2008. The internet and other new technologies have changed the tourism industry in an unprecedented way and keeping pace has become challenging. Online information is now one of the primary influences on consumer decisions in nearly all major markets. For example, 41 per cent of tourists arriving in Spain in 2007 had booked through the internet and in the United States the number of trips bought online exceeded those purchased offline. Such changes are impacting and influencing the way destinations and companies manage and market themselves. Library Journal, 2006.

The Information Needs of Communities Steven Waldman, 2011. In 2009 a bipartisan Knight Commission found that while the broadband age is enabling an information and communications renaissance, local communities in particular are being unevenly served with critical information about local issues. Soon after the Knight Commission delivered its findings, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) initiated a working group to identify crosscurrents and trends and make recommendations on how the information needs of communities can be met in a broadband world. Steven Waldman and the FCC Working Group on the Information Needs of Communities produced this report addressing the rapidly changing media landscape in a broadband age. The Information Needs of Communities looks not only at the changing face of media but also at the relevant policy and regulatory situations, including the track record of the FCC. Finally, the report offers policy suggestions to help create the best media system ever seen. Library & Information Science Abstracts, 2005. Dr. Dobb's Journal, 2005.

International Perspectives on Spinal Cord Injury World Health Organization, 2013. Every year between 250,000 and 500,000 people suffer a spinal cord injury with road traffic crashes, falls, and violence as the three leading causes. People with spinal cord injury are two to five times more likely to die prematurely. They also have lower rates of school enrollment and economic participation than people without such injuries Spinal cord injury has costly consequences for the individual and society but it is preventable survivable and need not preclude good health and social inclusion Ensuring an adequate medical and rehabilitation response followed by supportive services and accessible environments can help minimize the disruption to people with spinal cord injury and their families The aims of International perspectives on spinal cord injury are to assemble and summarize information on spinal cord injury in particular the epidemiology services interventions and policies that are relevant together with the lived experience of people with spinal cord injury make recommendations for actions based on this evidence that are consistent with the aspirations for people with disabilities as expressed in the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities
