Body Of Evidence 7 Burning Bones:

Body of Evidence #7 Christopher Golden, Rick Hautala, 2001-02 It's quite a mystery isn't it I mean how do you burn someone to death in public and not have anyone notice Two people burst into flame burned alive in front of plenty of eyewitnesses with no obvious cause Spontaneous human combustion is a bizarre phenomenon but according to published accounts it happens Could that be what occurred here Or is it murder As Jenna Blake turns nineteen she is getting over a recent breakup and is rekindling an old flame Between her personal life and college she has enough on her hands The last thing she needs is another nasty little puzzle But the burn victims clothes weren't flammable the crime scenes reveal no evidence of arson and none of the various witnesses can provide anything resembling a clue In fact she and Slick are just beginning to re-evaluate their faith in rational scientific explanation when the fire claims another victim and an incredible explanation presents itself Even as they struggle with their discovery the danger hits far too close to home DHHS Publication No. (PHS), 1979 DHHS Publication, 1980 Detailed Diagnoses and Procedures for Patients Discharged from Short-stay Hospitals, United States, 1986 Detailed Diagnoses and Surgical Procedures for Patients Discharged from Short-stay Hospitals, United States, 1982 Kliatt Young Adult Paperback Book Guide, 2001 The National Home and Hospice Care Survey, ... Moni Odigitria Antōnēs Vasilakēs, Keith Branigan, 2010 This volume presents the final report on the excavation of two Prepalatial tholos tombs and their associated remains at Chatzinas Liophyto near the Moni Odigitria monastery in south central Crete The grave goods and burial remains include pottery metal objects chipped stones stone vases gold and stone jewelry sealstones and human skeletal material The results of the associated survey of the upper catchment of the Hagiopharango region are also reported The book finishes with a reappraisal of our understanding of the early settlement of the Hagiopharango and a Greek summary Memoirs, 1937 The Medical Disability Advisor Presley Reed, 2001

G. Allen, Jonathan Hiller, 2002 This report documents the discovery excavation and preservation of a Norman moated stone manor house found in 1984 at the Mount House Witney The trial excavations that were made in advance of housing development revealed groups of buildings surrounded by a curtain wall and moat Further excavations in the north west and south east parts of the complex uncovered a massive and well preserved tower and attached range of the first half of the 12th century which was progressively enlarged by a chapel a central pier a raised terrace and a garderobe block The buildings were further modified in the later medieval period Coins in robber trenches indicate that some buildings were demolished during the English Civil War though others were maintained The front cover shows Nathaniel Buck s early 18th century engraving purporting to show the remains which were systematically demolished in the mid 18th century to make way for a new house The site remained in the ownership of the Bishops of Winchester until 1862 when it was purchased by the 6th Duke of Marlborough The present house was built c 1904 The site was purchased by Oxfordshire County Council in 1993 and the tower is now on display to the public

Perspectives on Hominid Behaviour and Settlement Patterns Shejiang Wang, 2005 This study focuses on the Lower Palaeolithic archaeology of China It examines early hominid adaptive behaviour based on the new evidence from the Luonan Basin northern China Unlike past Chinese Palaeolithic studies the study takes a regional approach emphasising the palaeoenvironmental palaeoecological and taphonomic information brought together from studies of faunal remains spatial analysis of stone artefacts and bones and lithic artefact refitting studies Detailed analyses consist of lithic typology and technology This is then compared at a regional and global scale The study describes the regional setting site formation processes chronology lithic assemblage raw materials and provides a typotechnological analysis of stone artefacts The database comprises lithic artefacts and bone material excavated from the Longyadong cave as well as analyses of surface and subsurface archaeology of the 50 open air sites dated to over 250 kyr ago A total of 1 751 lithic artefacts were examined from the open air sites while at the Longyadong cave 18 609 items were analysed They included stone artefacts fauna as well as evidence for the use of fire The data provide a framework for an examination of the lithic technology and typology particularly its diversity and variability The specific analyses reject the hypothesis of two Palaeolithic cultural traditions in North China and strongly challenge the notion of the existence of the Movius line The Palaeolithic open air sites and the Longyadong cave site were occupied by hominids co existing under consistent ecological and environmental conditions for hundreds of thousands years The very distinctive lithic assemblages found separately in the open air sites and cave site are interpreted as reflecting different site function and varied subsistence activities rather than different hominid groups living contemporaneously in the valley It reflects adaptive behaviours that appear to be the precursor to fully modern human behavioural organization
