Boho Women Peeling Oranges:

Boho Women Peeling Oranges Ronnie Goodyer, 2003 This collection contains some of the finest female poets writing today There s no hidden agenda feminist or otherwise just a host of brilliant poetry Poetry to aspire to to reflect on disagree with laugh at Get a feel of been there done that and a longing to do other things There s no doubt the future of poetry today is in safe hands Bite Your Tongue When You Give Me My Name Melissa Lee-Houghton, 2011-06-01 Description Following her debut book Patterns of Mourning Melissa Lee Houghton has written a new collection of original raw edged poems that are concerned with all things both abject and sublime Love meets violence death meets clarity the theme of sex dominates many of the poems as for the writer it always brings about the question of domination and submission of the will if not the senses She writes to try to find answers as to how we are to love and if we can maintain loving relationships after abuse has happened Early recollections and experiences find powerful resonance now that the writer is in her mid twenties and the newness of family life and marital love have given her the space to understand herself and her addiction to writing Many of these poems were composed during periods of illness as Melissa s Bipolar symptoms have worsened over the years She has also been diagnosed with Borderline Personality Disorder and the intense confessional blunt and argumentative tone in her work is her way of expressing her personality and her identity outside of medicine and psychiatry outside of stereotypes and stigma About the Author Melissa Lee Houghton was born in Wythenshawe 1982 to a young mother whose unstable relationship with her husband caused the family to uproot Melissa has no recollection of her father She enjoyed a childhood made magical in its promise and naivety but the happiness was equally matched by disturbing and abusive experiences By the age of 11 Melissa had seen a psychiatrist as she would no longer attend school and had begun a severe depression which lasted the duration of her school years and made it impossible for her to attend Instead she was treated and admitted to psychiatric services for anxiety depression and self harm and the makings of what turned out to be full blown Bipolar Affective moodswings and psychosis She feels her illness is an enduring trauma with which she chronically battles with medications Writing to her is necessity Melissa has two children and suffered PNI and Puerperal Psychosis following their births Melissa s debut book Patterns of Mourning is available through Chipmunka Melissa is currently working on a new project focussing on composing literary portraits of some wonderfully diverse people from all walks of life Stroking the Air Eileen Carney Hulme, 2005 The work of Eileen Carney Hulme is a fresh addition to the arena of contemporary poetry having breezed its way around much of the small press circuit The most overpowering aspect of this author s work grips you not because of her direct relationship with her subjects or for the way she accounts for her ideas using verse but more so for the way she infuses sound colours textures and smells that she plucks from each moment creating a vivid picture of living emotions that encompass each moment in her life Her work is fresh and airy tinged with romance and even in sadness she finds joy It is refreshingly uplifting and poignant capturing the heart of her relationship with life and love Ian Deal poet and
