through regional and global food systems The potential role of transformative agricultural technologies and practices in sustainability transitions is widely researched However greater focus is required on the real world implications at a farm system level and the positive and negative effects of change in the livelihoods of those being urged to change i e farmers farm businesses and supply chains At the farm level transformation can be a complex process that intersects land livelihoods and security of the wider food supply system As a consequence theoretical concepts of transformation to achieve more sustainable food systems can be difficult to implement for farmers due to unforeseen interactions and implications Better understanding of these experiences is needed for effective and viable transformation options to progress environmental social and economic sustainability
