

Get involved in math, experience math,

Practice mathematics

The new curriculum standard points out that mathematics education should be oriented to all students, so that everyone can learn valuable mathematics, everyone can obtain the necessary mathematics, and different people can get different development in mathematics. Therefore, teachers should actively create a democratic and happy atmosphere in teaching, create problem situations, and let students participate, get close, experience, "recreate" and apply mathematics through self-operation, exploration, practical application and other main activities, and truly become the master of mathematics learning.

First, atmosphere building, participate in mathematics

Mental happiness can put people in a positive state, full of hope, confidence and creativity in everything. In primary school mathematics textbooks, teachers should make full use of students' existing life experience and guide students to apply the mathematical knowledge they have learned to reality, so as to appreciate the application value of mathematics in reality. In addition to the content of mathematical knowledge, the textbook also penetrates a lot of rich and colorful social
