Velazquez, C. Rodriguez-Barrueco, 2007-05-27 In 2002 sixty international specialists met to discuss problems of high P unavailability as a soil nutrient for crops and the hazards of increased phosphate input to aquatic habitats from industrial and mining activities sewage disposal detergents and other sources Among the presentations were updated solutions to enhance P uptake by plants bioremediation potential in the rehabilitation of ecosystems taxonomic characterization interactions with mycorrhizae the physiological and molecular basis of PSM and more Books in Print Supplement, 1994 The Functioning of Ecosystems Mahamane Ali, 2012-04-27 The ecosystems present a great diversity worldwide and use various functionalities according to ecologic regions In this new context of variability and climatic changes these ecosystems undergo notable modifications amplified by domestic uses of which it was subjected to Indeed the ecosystems render diverse services to humanity from their composition and structure but the tolerable levels are unknown The preservation of these ecosystemic services needs a clear understanding of their complexity The role of the research is not only to characterise the ecosystems but also to clearly define the tolerable usage levels Their characterisation proves to be important not only for the local populations that use it but also for the conservation of biodiversity Hence the measurement management and protection of ecosystems need innovative and diverse methods For all these reasons the aim of this book is to bring out a general view on the biogeochemical cycles the ecological imprints the mathematical models and theories applicable to many situations Management of Water Use in Agriculture Kenneth K. Tanji, Bruno Yaron, 2012-12-06 As the world population increases there is increasing competition for water quantity as well as quality Provided here is an up to date perspective on Available Water Resources Part I Water Conservation and Technology in Agricultural Systems Part II Problem Water Uses and Treatment Part III and Management and Policy Evaluation Part IV The book is an invaluable source of information for water resource planners managers and policy makers researchers and students and irrigationists Methane and Climate Change Dave Reay, Pete Smith, 2010-08-12 Methane is a powerful greenhouse gas and is estimated to be responsible for approximately one fifth of man made global warming Per kilogram it is 25 times more powerful than carbon dioxide over a 100 year time horizon and global warming is likely to enhance methane release from a number of sources Current natural and man made sources include many where methane producing micro organisms can thrive in anaerobic conditions particularly ruminant livestock rice cultivation landfill wastewater wetlands and marine sediments This timely and authoritative book provides the only comprehensive and balanced overview of our current knowledge of sources of methane and how these might be controlled to limit future climate change It describes how methane is derived from the anaerobic metabolism of micro organisms whether in wetlands or rice fields manure landfill or wastewater or the digestive systems of cattle and other ruminant animals It highlights how sources of methane might themselves be affected by climate change It is shown how numerous point sources of methane have the potential to be more easily addressed than sources of carbon dioxide and therefore contribute significantly to climate change mitigation in the 21st century
