Being Human Ethics Environment And Our Place In The World:

Being Human Anna L. Peterson,2001-05-26 Being Human examines the complex connections among conceptions of human nature attitudes toward non human nature and ethics Anna Peterson proposes an ethical anthropology that examines how ideas of nature and humanity are bound together in ways that shape the very foundations of cultures Peterson discusses mainstream Western understandings of what it means to be human as well as alternatives to these perspectives and suggests that the construction of a compelling coherent environmental ethics will revise our ideas not only about nature but also about what it means to be human

Being Human ,2020 The Sacredness of Human Life David P. Gushee,2013-01-14 This authoritative book is the most comprehensive examination ever of the sacredness of human life Never before has one volume explored this subject in such a multifaceted way encompassing biblical roots theological elaborations historical cases and contemporary ethical perspectives Tracing the concept of the sacredness of human life from Scripture through church history to the present day David Gushee argues that viewing human life as sacred is one of the most precious legacies of biblical faith albeit one that the church has too often failed to uphold Besides providing a masterful historical survey Gushee s discussion covers the many current ethical challenges and perspectives that will impact the survival and flourishing of human life including biotechnology the death penalty abortion human rights nuclear weapons just war theory women s rights and creation care Gushee s Sacredness of Human Life is a game changing book that will set the standard for all future discussions of this key ethical concept

Public Religion and the Urban Environment Richard Bohannon,2012-04-26 Nature and the city have most often functioned as opposites within Western culture a dichotomy that has been reinforced and sometimes challenged by religious images Bohannon argues here that cities and natural environments however are both connected and continually affected by one another He shows how such connections become overt during natural disasters which disrupt the narratives people use to make sense of the world including especially religious narratives and make them more visible This book offers both a theoretical exploration of the intersection of the city nature and religion as well as a sociological analysis of the 1997 flood in Grand Forks ND USA This case study shows how religious factors have influenced how the relationship between nature and the city is perceived and in particular have helped to justify the urban control of nature The narratives found in Grand Forks also reveal a broader understanding of the nature of Western cities highlighting the potent and ethically rich intersections between religion cities and nature

Christianity and Earthkeeping Ernst Marais Conradie,2011-04-01 Why should Christians engage in earthkeeping as Christians and from within Christian communities What is the underlying theological rationale for that In this book some 19 reasons why Christians may be encouraged to engage in earthkeeping are identified juxtaposed and assessed in order to call for clarity to invite discussion and to elicit creative tensions No single position is advocated it would be helpful if Christians could engage in earthkeeping on the basis of any of these motivations

Environmental Ethics ,2003 Choice ,2002 Perspectives on Science and Christian Faith ,2005 An Ecological Christian Anthropology E. M. Conradie, 2005 What is the place and vocation of human beings in the earth community This is the central question that this contribution towards a Christian ecological anthropology addresses In ecological theology this question is often answered by the affirmation that We are at home on earth This affirmation rightly responds to the widespread sense of alienation from nature to the anthropocentrism that pervades much of the Christian tradition and to concerns about the scope of environmental devastation This book challenges the affirmation that we are at home on earth examining natural suffering anxieties concerning human finitude and especially the pervasiveness of evil The book investigates contributions to ecological theology South African and African theology reformed theology and contemporary dialogues between theology and the sciences in search of a thoroughly ecological Christian anthropology
