Bruc ealles well Marc Lodewijckx, 2004 The essays in this book are about the peoples of North West Europe in the first millennium AD They were written by archaeologists from various countries who either reveal the results of their archaeological fieldwork or place the knowledge they have of their particular region in a wider supraregional context It is commonly known that archaeologists prefer to devote their time to fieldwork Considering the limited number of archaeologists and the multitude of opportunities for fieldwork this preference is quite understandable if not even obvious In addition to this essay writing is a cumbersome and exhausting activity The warm and enthusiastic response to our request for contributions made it possible to compose an interesting volume We hope that this publication may encourage many others to remain active in the field of archaeology and that the cooperation among colleagues stimulated by this project may be continued in the future

The Earlier Iron Age in Britain and the Near Continent Colin Haselgrove, Rachel Pope, 2007 Seeks to establish what we now know and do not know about Earlier Iron Age communities in Britain and their neighbours on the Continent The authors look at how communities of the Late Bronze Age transform into those of the Earlier Iron Age and how we understand the social changes of the later first millennium BC

A Text-book of European Archaeology Robert Alexander Stewart Macalister, 1921

Pharos, 2004 Miniature Votive Offerings in the North-west Provinces of the Roman Empire Philip Kiernan, 2009 Miniature votive offerings are small non functional representations of day to day objects that are commonly found on sanctuary sites in the north west provinces of the Roman Empire They are frequently seen as evidence for a universal Romano Celtic rite of miniaturisation which enabled individual worshippers to dedicate models in the place of things they could not otherwise afford This practice is typically seen as belonging to a Roman tradition of making personal votive offerings which replaced the large scale ritual deposition of war booty and precious metal that had characterised Iron Age religion By considering these objects in light of their archaeological findspots distribution chronology and symbolic significance this book demonstrates that miniature votive offerings were not produced as part of a single ritual phenomenon The various types wheels arms and armour axes coins tools the so called Mithras symbols etc were all produced for specific and often unrelated reasons Some were communal rather than individual offerings and functioned as substitutes for high value offerings of the past that were now no longer feasible Such offerings belong to a transitional phase between Iron Age and Roman religion Other miniature votive offerings deposited both by individuals and groups functioned as symbols of particular divinities or ritual acts and were used from the late Iron Age to the end of the Roman period. Seemingly insignificant and simple artefacts, miniature votive offerings, present a wealth of insight into ancient religious practices and mentalities. World Islands in Prehistory William H. Waldren, Josep A. Ensenyat, 2002. Papers in English, excepting 5 papers in Spanish and 3 in French. Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2002-02.
