Differences That Make A Difference Examining Assumptions In Gender Research:

Differences That Make a Difference Lynn H. Turner, Helen M Sterk, 1994-11-21 Joining the debate on gender differences this book presents a cross section of current research in communication language and gender studies The first part presents studies that ask how women and men differ on a range of communication variables and suggest reasons for these differences The second part offers a variety of critiques of masculine cultural hegemony The third part envisions how gender differences may be reconceptualized in order to open key cultural institutions to honor both women and men Taken as a whole the chapters inform one another in a creative dialectical tension Examining what researchers mean by gender differences and values implicit in the term is critical to understanding current trends in gender studies Interpersonal Communication Research Mike Allen, Raymond W. Preiss, Barbara Mae Gayle, Nancy Burrell, 2001-08 This volume provides a systematic review of the literature on interpersonal communication examining the normal practice of scholars and text to summarize existing research A valuable resource for advanced coursework as well as for scholars in the area The Psychology of Sex and Gender Jennifer K. Science ,2004 Effective Small Group and Team Communication Judith Davis Hoover,Judith Hoover,2005 EFFECTIVE SMALL GROUP AND TEAM COMMUNICATION presents original research based upon the experiences of functioning groups The text emphasizes an interactive approach to teaching small group communication and contains activities that tie into each chapter Chapters on both face to face and virtual meetings are guided by a teamwork philosophy that encourages the use of shared emergent leadership in classroom groups From the Margins to the Center Patricia Ann Sullivan,Lynn H. Turner,1996 Examining the cases of Lani Guinier Hillary Rodham Clinton and Janet Reno the authors explore the rhetorical choices contemporary women are making in political discourse They frame this exploration theoretically by describing three moral boundaries that discourage women from entering political life the boundary between morality and politics the moral point of view boundary and the boundary between public and private life Guinier Clinton and Reno have each adopted different strategies in confronting these boundaries and in challenging gender stereotypes and their strategies dramatically illustrate the communication of contemporary political women Communication in Peace, Conflict in Communication Tuğrul İltter,2008 Peace and Conflict are commonly understood as polar opposites In a polarised opposition there is no place for conflict in peace and peace the privileged term of the binary opposition needs to be pure and homogeneous cleansed of any unlicensed differences and contradictions Yet a radically plural and democratic politic must harbour conflicting and antagonistic views of things opposition is internal to it and its view of freedom says that freedom is always the freedom of those who think differently In contrast the ideal of a homogeneous self same indivisibly unified society is totalitarian and repressive of the very differences that make a society any society possible The organizers of the 2nd International Conference on Communication and Media Studies at Eastern Mediterranean University 24 May 2007 thought that a deconstructive and feminist framework that destabilises the entrenched certain ties of polar oppositions and an ethical response to the irreducible otherness of the other as well as to one's own alterity would be very appropriate and relevant in our times for rethinking these issues and relied on that framework in formulating the theme of the conference as Communication in Peace Conflict in Communication to emphasise the interrelationship of the two parts separated by the slash as well as the formulation of the subtopics that were listed in the call for papers This volume includes work from around the world that responded to that call

Bibliographic Index, 1995 Gender specific speaking behavior in a controversial discussion Maren Köppel, 2023-03-08 Seminar paper from the year 2020 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Other grade 1.0 University of Freiburg English Department language English abstract Over the past decades a great number of research has been conducted on the differences between male and female speaking behaviour Since many efforts have been made to establish equal opportunities for both genders several studies examined whether these changes are also reflected in their language Most of them concentrate on informal conversations in collegial settings and come to the conclusion that the differences are rather diminishing This study will focus on examining gender differences in language using a sequence of a controversial discussion which was published as a YouTube video It will give a brief review of the research within this area and then move on to analysing the recording Special focus will be put on specific linguistic items which have been carried out in previous studies of this field

Gender Research in Africa Vivian Ojong, R. Sooryamoorthy, 2025-09-30 This book considers how methodologies theories and analytical frameworks from gender studies can be applied to African societies cultural social and historical contexts The book advocates for the importance of feminist research practices which highlight women and their lived experiences within a gendered world in Africa Gender studies has grown in prominence over recent decades rooted in an awareness that gender is no longer just an issue in the margins but core to the analysis of the interaction of power identity and social relations in the world This book considers how the field can evolve further in a postcolonial context integrating indigenous and local knowledge systems and practices Covering how gender is contested in African settings the book outlines how researchers can approach the ways in which social and racial categories class ethnicity and socioeconomic status intersect to produce gender based violence Overall this book shows how gender sensitive methodologies can help researchers to gain deeper insights into discrimination inequalities and gender based violence and thus contribute to better adapted social and legal reforms

Literacy, Gender, and Work Judith W. Solsken, 1993 This is the first in depth study of gender issues in early literacy learning It provides vivid portraits of the difficulties that both boys and girls experience in learning to read and write at home and in classrooms due to gendered divisions of labor in families and schools The portraits are based on data from a three year ethnographic study in which learning biographies were constructed for thirteen children from their entry into kindergarten until the completion of second grade The biographies show that in learning to read and write children construct gendered identities and negotiate their social relations with parents siblings teachers and peers Even in supportive families and progressive classrooms children face difficulties in literacy learning as a result of family and classroom practices organizing literacy on the dimensions of male female and work play The result is often the unwitting perpetuation of traditional gender roles in families schools and the larger society This account of early literacy learning links the personal and social meaning of literacy in children s everyday lives with the larger cultural and political significance of gender The theoretical arguments and questions raised in the book challenge prevailing psychological and sociocultural models of literacy learning and set the agenda for future research on literacy and gender
