Visualizing Egypt Paulina Banas,2025-04-15 Illustrated publications and the role of market forces in shaping representations of Egypt at a time when European colonial interests in the region were at their peak with 80 color and black and white illustrations In the nineteenth century following Napoleon Bonaparte s 1798 campaign in Egypt new possibilities of travel and improvements in printing technology saw an emergence of publishing ventures in France and Britain dedicated to the production of albums and travel accounts featuring images of Muslim Egypt and Islamic architecture and catering to a growing European fascination with the East Visualizing Egypt analyzes the context and process of production of these highly illustrated publications from their conceptualization to the finished product and its afterlife from marketing to the sales of these books and from circulation to their reception by nineteenth century audiences By tracing the long arduous and often risky publishing journeys of the makers of these books including publishers writers and artists such as the Frenchman mile Prisse d Avennes Paulina Banas reveals a complex terrain of changing market demands collaborations and conflicting views and the unsettled authorship of these works prompting us to think more profoundly about artistic and intellectual exchange in the world of nineteenth century Orientalist book production Visualizing Egypt considers nineteenth century book illustrations on Egypt and the Orient not merely as expressions of enduring ideology and colonial propaganda but as representations shaped by the often overlooked commercial exigencies of the growing publishing industry and the reckless competition within it

Emirate, Egyptian, Ethiopian Avishai Ben-Dror,2018-08-23 In October 1875 two months after the takeover of the Somali coastal town of Zeila an Egyptian force numbering 1 200 soldiers departed from the city to occupy Harar a prominent Muslim hub in the Horn of Africa In doing so they turned this sovereign emirate into an Egyptian colony that became a focal meeting point of geopolitical interests with interactions between Muslim Africans European powers and Christian Ethiopians In Emirate Egyptian Ethiopian Ben Dror tells the story of Turco Egyptian colonial ambitions and the processes that integrated Harar into the global system of commerce that had begun enveloping the Red Sea This new colonial era in the city s history inaugurated new standards of government society and religion Drawing on previously untapped Egyptian Harari Ethiopian and European archival sources Ben Dror reconstructs the political social economic religious and cultural history of the occupation which included building roads reorganizing the political structure and converting many to Islam He portrays the complexity of colonial interactions as an influx of European merchants and missionaries settled in Harar By shedding light on the dynamic historical processes Ben Dror provides new perspectives on the important role of non European imperialists in shaping the history of these regions

Egypt as a Woman Beth Baron,2005-02-28 This original and historically rich book examines the influence of gender in shaping the Egyptian nation from the nineteenth century through the revolution of 1919 and into the 1940s In Egypt as a Woman Beth Baron divides her narrative into two strands the first analyzes the gendered language and images of the nation and the second considers the political activities of women nationalists She shows that even though women were largely excluded from participation in the state the visual imagery of nationalism was replete with female figures Baron juxtaposes the idealization of the family and the feminine in nationalist rhetoric with transformations in elite households and the work of women activists striving for national independence

Dividing the Nile David E. Mills,2014-12-01 Most scholarship has attributed Sudanese independence in 1956 to British dominance of the Condominium historical animosity toward Egypt or the emergence of Sudanese nationalism Dividing the Nile counters that Egyptian entrepreneurs failed to develop a united economy or shared economic interests guaranteeing Egypt s loss of the Sudan It argues that British dominance of the Condominium may have stymied initial Egyptian efforts but that after the First World War Egypt became increasingly interested in and capable of economic ventures in the Sudan However early Egyptian financial assistance and the seemingly successful resolution of Nile waters disputes actually divided the regions while later concerted efforts to promote commerce and acquire Sudanese lands failed dismally Egyptian nationalists simply missed opportunities of aligning their economic future with that of their Sudanese brethren resulting in a divided Nile valley Dividing the Nile will appeal to historians social scientists and international relations theorists among those interested in Nile valley developments but its focused economic analysis will also contribute to broader scholarship on nationalism and nationalist theory

A History of African Higher Education from Antiquity to the Present Y. G-M Lulat,2005-08-30 Until recently Eurocentrist history professors taught that it was the Europeans who brought higher education to the African continent While the Europeans have indeed influenced African education in recent times there is some vital information that most history books leave out for centuries before the arrival of the Europeans the vast and advanced native African civilizations already had sophisticated universities and other institutions of higher education to boast about This book is an attempt to fill the chasm in today s literature regarding this topic It will be of interest to those researching the accurate non Euro biased history of Africa MacArthur Fellows ,2005 Race and Identity in the Nile Valley Carolyn Fluehr-Lobban, Kharyssa Rhodes, 2004 African Studies Review ,2005 Jewish Writers in the Arab East Lisa Lital Levy, 2007 Current Geographical Publications University of Wisconsin--Milwaukee.
