The Social Subjects Within the Curriculum John Ahier, Alistair Ross, 2025-12-01 Unlike much material available at the time The Social Subjects Within the Curriculum originally published in 1995 stands back from the issues of implementing the National Curriculum Instead it poses key questions about the ability of such a centralised system to provide an integrated social and economic education for future citizens Taking the cross curricular themes as identified in the NCC curriculum guidance as starting points the various contributors analyse and criticise the approaches suggested and in some cases suggest alternatives or additions Some of the questions posed are What is this new curriculum attempting to achieve in the social education of 5 13 year olds How does it compare with previous programmes How does it relate to the economic and social developments in

Department of Mineralogy, 1895 Neural Networks Raul Rojas, 2013-06-29 Neural networks are a computing paradigm that is finding increasing attention among computer scientists In this book theoretical laws and models previously scattered in the literature are brought together into a general theory of artificial neural nets Always with a view to biology and starting with the simplest nets it is shown how the properties of models change when more general computing elements and net topologies are introduced Each chapter contains examples numerous illustrations and a bibliography The book is aimed at readers who seek an overview of the field or who wish to deepen their knowledge It is suitable as a basis for university courses in neurocomputing The Journal of the Society of Automotive Engineers ,1927 Journal of the American Association of University Women ,1926 The ... Yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education ,1922 Good Health ,1912 A Comparison of Genetic Algorithms and Other Machine Learning Systems on a Complex Classification Task from Common Disease Research Clare Bates Congdon, 1995 Abstract The thesis project is an investigation of some well known machine learning systems and evaluates their utility when applied to a classification task from the field of human genetics This common disease research task an inquiry into genetic and biochemical factors and their association with a family history of coronary artery disease CAD is more complex than many pursued in machine learning research due to interactions and the inherent noise in the dataset The task also differs from most pursued in machine learning research because there is a desire to explain the dataset with a small number of rules even at the expense of accuracy so that they will be more accessible to medical researchers who are unaccustomed to dealing with disjunctive explanations of data Furthermore there is asymmetry in the task in that good explanations of the positive examples is of more importance than good explanations of the negative examples The primary machine learning approach investigated in this research is genetic algorithms GA s decision trees Autoclass and Cobweb are also included The GA performed the best in terms of descriptive ability with the common disease research task although decision trees also demonstrated certain strengths Autoclass and Cobweb were recognized from the onset as being inappropriate for the needs of common disease researchers because both systems are unsupervised learners that create probabilistic structures but were included for their interest in the machine learning community these systems did not perform as well as GA s and decision trees in terms of their ability to describe the data In terms of predictive accuracy all systems performed poorly and the differences between any two of the three best systems is not significant When positive and negative examples are considered separately the GA does significantly better than the other systems in predicting positive examples and significantly worse in predicting negative examples The thesis illustrates that the investigation of real problems from researchers in other fields can lead machine learning researchers to challenge their systems in ways they may not otherwise have considered and may lead these researchers to a symbiotic relationship that benefits multiple research

Slotta, Nathaniel Lasry, 2019-07-11 This book represents the emerging efforts of a growing international network of researchers and practitioners to promote the development and uptake of evidence based pedagogies in higher education at something a level approaching large scale impact By offering a communication venue that attracts and enhances much needed partnerships among practitioners and researchers in pedagogical innovation we aim to change the conversation and focus on how we work and learn together i e extending the implementation and knowledge of co design methods In this first edition of our Research Topic on Active Learning we highlight two of the three types of publications we wish to promote First are studies aimed at understanding the pedagogical designs developed by practitioners in their own practices by bringing to bear the theoretical lenses developed and tested in the education research community These types of studies constitute the practice pull that we see as a necessary counterbalance to knowledge push in a more productive pedagogical innovation ecosystem based on research practitioner partnerships Second are studies empirically examining the implementations of evidence based designs in naturalistic settings and under naturalistic conditions Interestingly the teams conducting these studies are already exemplars of partnerships between researchers and practitioners who are uniquely positioned as in between straddling the two worlds As a result these publications represent both the rigours of research and the pragmatism of reflective practice In forthcoming editions we will add to this collection a third type of publication design profiles These will present practitioner developed pedagogical designs at varying levels of abstraction to be held to scrutiny amongst practitioners instructional designers and researchers alike We hope by bringing these types of studies together in an open access format that we may contribute to the development of new forms of practitioner researcher interactions that promote co design in pedagogical innovation     The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art ,1881     The Garden ,1897     Hunter-trader-trapper ,1929     The Shorthorn in America ,1916     The Pennsylvania School Journal Thomas Henry Burrowes, James Pyle Wickersham, Elnathan Elisha Higbee, David Jewett Waller, Nathan C.
