Resources in Education, 1997 Other Floors, Other Voices John M. Swales, 2013-11-05 The author describes this volume as a textography because it combines certain elements of both text analysis and ethnography Through analysis of texts textual forms and systems of texts it shows the lives life commitments and life projects of people deeply embedded in the literate culture of the university The people examined work in a single building but their textual lives are maintained in different times and spaces measured by the dimensions of text production and text circulation in their fields of work These domains of text time and space are to some degree differentiated by the three specialties that mark the three floors of a small building at a major research university the ethnographic site of this journey into textual lives computing taxonomic botany and English as a second language This research site provides the opportunity to re-examine the concept of discourse community and to investigate the nature and origination of academic discourse from a new perspective The author is a distinctive member of the applied linguistics and composition communities an original stamped by the global village of language education in which he has lived his life and revealed in his own autobiographical account embedded within this book This book now reveals him as a person making text about how people are embedded in making their textual lives within the discursive landscapes their communities afford In doing so he shows not only his own love of language as a way of life but also his appreciation of how all his subjects find their labors of love in the language they create This book has been written to appeal to a general academic audience as well as to specialists in rhetoric discourse analysis and composition
