173 Hours in Captivity Neelesh Misra,2000 End of the Line Neelesh Misra,2001 Relying on access to exclusive information AP correspondent Neelesh Misra pieces together the jigsaw of sometimes conflicting accounts of the murders of the Nepalese royal family on June 1 2001 A wider national tragedy stands revealed a nation with one foot in the 16th century and the other uncomfortably in the 21st and of a king whose grand plans for making that transition a smooth one would in more ways than one be brutally thwarted Women Writing in a Time of War, 1642-1689 Karen Britland,2025-05-26 Women Writing in a Time of War 1642 1689 explores the stereotype of the apolitical woman who was nevertheless valuable as a messenger or secret agent during the English civil wars not least because her imagined lack of political acumen obscured her partisan behaviour It examines the interconnections between early modern men and women s cultural production analyzing the secret writing and communication strategies employed by agents and spies during the wars and arguing that an attention to clandestine modes of writing provides new insights into women s literary production during the conflict Encouraging us to understand such literary production differently Britland offers a new history of early modern political writing one deeply imbricated in but by no means exclusively focused on the literary work and experiences of women the non elite and the racially marginalized in early modern England and its colonial trade networks An attentiveness to the narrative strategies deployed by women writers during the English civil wars also helps us to think about the long histories subtending our own reading and writing practices Not only does the relative invisibility of female agents in our own historiography reveal a persistent tendency in contemporary criticism to overlook women s contributions to major historical events but the book argues the early modern instrumentalization of women s bodies particularly the bodies of women from non elite backgrounds who acted as couriers within elite communication networks acts as a caution against adopting contemporary methods of reading particularly computer aided reading that can downplay or ignore the contributions of women and non elite people This book makes a case for not separating our discussions of women from those of men nor for privileging analyses of the rich over those of the poor at the same time as it remains deeply embedded in the literary material and merchant cultures of later seventeenth century England Nepal, Coping with Maoist Insurgency Chuda Bahadur Shreshtha,2004
