Portland OR Islands Magazine ,1992-09 Australian National Bibliography: 1992 National Library of Australia,1988 Peru, a Travel Survival Kit ,1987 Brazil John P. Dickenson,1997 Brazil is a huge country which occupies half a continent and contains major rivers rich mineral resources and a large segment of tropical forest It has been a colony an Empire and a democratic and dictatorial republic The country has experienced rapid economic development this century but still retains an active agricultural frontier Brazil is experiencing rapid urbanization but the elegant apartment blocks stand in sharp contrast to the nation s shanty towns and its acute rural poverty The Brazilian population includes Amerindians descendants of African slaves and immigrants from Portugal and other parts of Europe This work is a fully revised and updated edition of the 1985 original volume American Bookseller ,1989 The Publishers Weekly ,2008 Bookbuyers' Reference Book ,1993 Backcountry Brazil Alex Bradbury,1990 Guatemala, Belize & Yucatán Tom Brosnahan,1994 As well as providing historical and cultural background to the Mayan Route of Central America this guide covers Mexico s Caribbean coast Belize s offshore islands Campeche s pirate history and volcano climbing in Guatemala Eat Smart in Brazil Joan B. Peterson,2006 This never out of date culinary guidebook opens up the world of Brazilian food to travelers students studying abroad and foodies The smartly designed second edition of Eat Smart in Brazil tells travelers how to find the most delicious authentic and adventuresome eating experiences in Brazil The author shares the secrets she s uncovered while hunting for something good to eat from restaurant dining to home cooking to fresh market produce to allow you to get to the heart of the culture through its cuisine Class Formation, Diet and Economic Transformation in Two Brazilian Fishing Communities Christopher M. O'Leary,2002 As cash economies replace traditional ones some people develop negative associations with their traditions This is true in formerly subsistence based communities in Northeastern Brazil where newly imported foods are increasingly popular and confer prestige to their consumers in spite of their well known health risks To explore this I use longitudinal and ethnographic data in two former subsistence oriented fishing communities in the region where ecological deterioration has largely eliminated the traditional economy The two communities differ greatly in their response to this change One developed a tourist economy that allows easy access to cash and processed foods This community also attracts numerous migrants from great distances The second survives on cash remittances horticulture and commercial hunting Nevertheless fishing still plays a role in the economic life of the two towns Thus in both communities some are able to access more different foods than others In particular those with more cash income can eat more foods unknown in the two communities until recently This clearly affects nutrition in the two communities Wealthier adults not surprisingly have better nutrition in the two communities This trend is particularly dramatic in children While poor households in the two communities generally house undernourished children boys suffer more than girls This is a rare occurrence the world over and occurs because of local expectations and treatment of children Parents treat boys this way to attempt to assure that their sons are more active and assertive This results in boys who are more likely to suffer from nutritional deficiencies than their sisters Parents however do not know this and continue to push boys into greater activity Local beliefs currently favor new foods as well Residents of both communities have strong beliefs in the health benefits of new foods and positive associations with new foods and prestige Additionally social religious and sexual life favors such foods Thus food creates local social classes with local beliefs and biology
